

Senator Taft in Favor of Higher Income Levies

Would Increase Rate On Normal Incomes From 4 to 10 Per Cent

Washington.—(P)—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) suggested today that the first step in heavier taxes for defense should be to increase the normal levy on personal incomes from 4 per cent to 10 per cent.

Taft declared that personal incomes were "the most promising source of revenue" and added that a federal sales tax should not be imposed until increased taxes on individuals had been tried.

He said that "we would only be fooling ourselves" if an effort were made to increase taxes on corporations. "Taxes on business are passed on to the people," he continued, "but they tend to discourage business activity."

Higher Rates Certain
Pointing out that the people of Great Britain had managed to pay increasingly heavy income tax rates, Taft told reporters that a man making $5,000 in this country, with average exemptions, now paid only $120 tax. He added that if the normal tax rate was increased from 4 to 10 per cent, such a man would pay $300.

"The people might as well recognize that they are going to have to pay at least 10 per cent on their incomes," Taft asserted.

He added that present excise, or "nuisance," taxes should be retained for the time being.

Taft said, too, that future federal bond issues should be made subject to taxation, along with the obligations of state governments.

Only "wealthy people" now benefit from the exemptions on government bonds, he contended.

Nine are Accused Of Mail Fraud

Chicago.—(P)—Nine persons were indicted today by a federal grand jury which charged a mail fraud of nearly $7,000,000 through promotion of the International Syndicate and the Resources Corporation International, concerns claiming ownership of 2,000,000 acres of Mexican timberland.

The 26-count indictment alleged that hundreds of investors were defrauded through sale of stock in the companies, once headed by the late Harper S. Hoover.

Bonds of $100,000 each were set and bench warrants were issued.

War on Submarines 'Taking a Very Good Turn,' England Told

London.—(P)—A high naval source expressed conviction today that Britain's warfare against German submarines "is taking a very good turn."

In addition to the relentless search at sea, he said there was evidence that almost daily bomber attacks on U-boat bases in France had destroyed or damaged Hitler's undersea craft.

He emphasized, however, that unless such factual evidence as prisoners can be obtained it is difficult to assess fully the damage being inflicted. The admiralty—"the silent service"—is not issuing detailed reports on submarine sinking on the grounds that such information would be of value to the Germans.

This informant made it plain that Britain is sparing no pains in applying various methods and devices against the U-boat menace.

Slayer Dies in Chair On Friday the 13th

Chicago.—(P)—The electric chair in the Cook county jail claimed a Friday the 13th victim today—Robert Schroeder, 26, the convicted slayer of an eight-year-old girl.

Schroeder entered the death chamber two minutes after midnight and was pronounced dead seven minutes later.

The girl, Mazie Smith, was slain July 17 in the basement of a tavern where Schroeder was employed as a porter. Prosecutors contended he killed the child to prevent her from telling of his attempts to attack her.

Fish Bites Man!

It isn't news when "dog bites man"—but when a fish bites a man well, that's something different. An Arizona fisherman was so incensed when a three-pound trout bit his finger that he jumped into the water and caught the fish barehanded. With some imagination we might continue the story and guess that the man got his retribution after the trout was rebuffed and covered with butter sauce! It isn't a fish story but a well-known fact that Post-Crescent Want Ads get quick results at low cost.

Five Members of Family Injured as Car, Truck Collide

Six persons were injured, four seriously, when a car carrying a family of six collided with a truck loaded with pulp wood at 2:15 yesterday afternoon on Highway 45 about 2 1/2 miles east of Hortonville.

Captain Charles Steidl of the Outagamie county highway police reported that the passenger car driven by Otto Miller, 49, route 2, Ogdensburg, skidded on slippery pavement and slid broadside against a truck driven by Herman Ernst, 17, route 2, Manawa.

Miller received side and back injuries. The other members of his family who were in the car and their injuries are as follows: Mrs. Miller, 39, fractured right arm, head lacerations; Irene Miller, 19, fractured pelvis and bruises; Doris Miller, 13, fractured pelvis and body bruises; Kenneth Miller, 16, head and face cuts. Only the youngest Miller child, Elaine, 5, was unharmed.

Young Ernst, the driver of the truck, suffered a dislocated hip and cuts, according to the attending physician. The injured were taken to the Community hospital at New London for treatment.

Miller told Captain Steidl he was traveling west on Highway 45 about 45 miles an hour when a car ahead of him slowed its speed. When Miller applied his brakes, his machine whirled around twice on the highway and crashed broadside against the oncoming truck. Ernst said he was driving about 25 or 30 miles an hour.

Taken to Hospital
The Kunitz ambulance from Appleton and a private car took the injured to the New London hospital. Captain Steidl reported that Christmas gifts and candy purchased by the Miller family littered the highway at the scene of the crash.

Arnold Yaeger, 26, route 2, Appleton, suffered minor cuts on his hands and face when the automobile he was driving collided with another driven by Arthur Olm, 29, 218 E. Winnebago avenue, Appleton, on Highway 47 at Appleton's city limits about 3:15 Thursday afternoon. Olm was not injured.

Yaeger told Winnebago county police that he was going south on Highway 47 when he noticed the car ahead of him slowing down. Yaeger applied his brakes and skidded sideways into the Olm car, which was going north, he told police.

D. J. Flanagan, Bear Creek, is being treated at New London Community hospital today for a fractured collarbone and rib. He was injured on Highway 45 south of Tigerton last night when his car collided with a truck loaded with Christmas trees.

Seaways Plan Faces Attack

Head of New York Group Urges 'More Militant Opposition'

New York.—(P)—George D. MacDonald, president of the New York State Waterways association, declared today that "even more militant" opposition to the proposed St. Lawrence seaways project was "imperative."

Addressing the annual convention of the association in Brooklyn, MacDonald said: "I cannot emphasize too strongly the necessity for prompt and vigorous action by this association."

He contended that the federal Wheeler-Lea bill "has, or soon will, gain strength in favor of the seaways project. The anticipated upward revision of water rates under this new legislation will increase transportation costs to shipping and consumers of the midwest."

MacDonald added that when shippers of the midwest "find that their imports and exports upon which they have enjoyed low-cost transportation in domestic vessels, via the Mississippi system, the Great Lakes and the New York canal system, bear increased rates, it is natural to expect them to turn to the next available source of economical transportation. The St. Lawrence project then will assume added attractiveness."

"It is safe to assume," MacDonald continued, that if the proposed seaway will be presented to the midwest as a means of providing low economical transportation. The St. Lawrence project then will assume added attractiveness."

Germany Planning to Free 20,000 Belgians

Berlin.—(P)—Twenty thousand Belgian prisoners of war are to be returned to their homes before Christmas, authorized sources said today. They will be moved from Germany as soon as transportation is available.

After Christmas an additional 70,000 are to be sent to their homes which, it was pointed out, mainly are in agricultural districts.

Camps Aren't Ready; Last of Guardsmen Can't be Mobilized

Washington.—(P)—Complete mobilization of the final 96,000 national guardsmen called up for a year's active service with the regular army must be postponed almost two months because of unforeseen delays in construction of camp facilities.

Delays for individual units will range from one week to two months. The date for mobilizing the final group had to be set up from Feb. 3 to April 1.

War Secretary Stimson attributed the tardiness in completing the camps to adverse weather conditions, water shortage and similar causes.

The war secretary said he could not determine immediately whether the delays in mobilizing the guardsmen would hold up induction of some 160,000 selectees who were to have donned uniforms next month. Guardsmen will be used to help in training men taken into the army under the selective service act.

Added Fascist Troops Fail to Halt Greek Army

Large Forces Thrown Into Battle District On Albanian Coast

Athens.—(P)—Fresh Italian troops thrown into the battle in Albania were reported today to have failed to halt the slashing Greek advance against heights surrounding the coastal town of Chimara, north of captured Porto Edda, despite desperate resistance.

Here and elsewhere the Greeks said that the Italians were replacing large units with new troops but that the latter were no more successful in checking the Greeks. Especially large Italian concentrations were declared thrown into the fight along the coast in a desperate effort to halt the Greeks.

One dispatch from the front said that after the Greeks repulsed fascist counter-attacks at various points "the initiative along the entire front passed once again to Greek troops and the enemy is continuing to retreat."

Entire Units Replaced
"At many places the Italian command replaced entire units with fresh forces at the cost of many sacrifices because the morale of the older forces was seriously impaired and they were considered unfit for further fighting," this dispatch went on.

"But even these new Italian forces received serious blows and there already are many prisoners from these new units."

Captured Italian officers were said by the Greeks to have expressed doubt of Italy's ability to continue the struggle after the likely fall of Kilsura pass, where they had hoped to check the Greek advance.

Officials Wonder if Body Will be Sent Home on U. S. Warship

Washington.—(P)—The flags of the nation's capital flew at half staff in mourning for Lord Lothian today as the British embassy waited on word from London before making funeral arrangements for the 56-year-old bachelor diplomat.

With those arrangements still uncertain, much interest centered on whether the United States would make its customary final gesture of respect—offer a warship to take the envoy's body home.

At the state department it was said unofficially that nothing definite had yet been done in the matter. The indications were that this decision probably would be left for President Roosevelt, who was cruising in the Caribbean when a radio message informed him that the British ambassador had died suddenly in the early hours yesterday.

The fact that Secretary of State Hull, extending the government's condolences, offered "all facilities at our disposal" led some to believe that the customary gesture would be made, regardless of the war abroad.

Schwellenbach Will Resign as Senator

Washington.—(P)—Aids of Senator Schwellenbach (D-Wash.) announced today that the senator was en route to Spokane, where he would resign as senator to become federal judge for the Eastern district of Washington.

Schwellenbach was nominated to the judgeship last May and confirmed immediately. He planned to resign from the senate when congress adjourned but when the session dragged out he was prevented from resigning because of legislation which he was directing in his course through the senate.

Cold Wave Is Sweeping Eastward; Snow Blankets Western U.S. Area

It was winter by the thermometer if not by the calendar in a wide area of the nation today.

Winter does not make its official debut for more than a week but wintry weather prevailed over the great plains and upper Mississippi valley.

Sub-zero temperatures marked the progress of a cold wave across Montana, the Dakotas, and Minnesota. A low of -25 was reported yesterday at Warroad, Minn.

"Much colder" was the forecast for most of the central states today and the eastern states tonight.

Duke of Windsor on Secret Trip; May be Named as British Envoy

Miami, Fla.—(P)—The duke of Windsor flew away from Miami in a naval plane today for an undisclosed destination, amid spreading reports that he would confer with President Roosevelt and might become British ambassador to the United States.

"I am sorry I am unable to make any statement," he told newsmen before shoving off in the launch which took him to the four-engine navy patrol plane, "but I am in the hands of the navy for the day and I'm sure they'll take good care of me."

Speculation on the possibility that the former king might represent this nation officially at Washington was stirred a few days ago when the duke's aide de camp, Captain Vyvyan Drury, disclosed through a press representative that Windsor was flying in a naval plane to "an undisclosed destination on important official business." It added that the state department wished all details withheld at present.

The duke wore a blue serge suit and a yachting cap when he boarded the plane. He carried no luggage and Captain Drury told reporters "I expect you'll be seeing him again soon," bolstering belief that he might be heading for a meeting with the chief executive who is cruising in nearby Bahamian waters. The plane took off at 9 a. m. (8 a. m. C.S.T.).

Before news of the flight was released, the Miami Herald published a story saying "it was learned in Miami Thursday" that the duke "will be given the opportunity of accepting or declining appointment as British ambassador to the United States before the post left vacant by the death of Lord Lothian is offered anyone else."

The decree gave no official reasons for the new measure. It was believed to have been inspired, however, by efforts to keep refugees from crossing secretly into Switzerland.

Among the new frontier regulations to go into force Dec. 19 was one requiring special cards issued by military commanders for crossing Rhine river bridges in eastern Switzerland near Liechtenstein and the old Austrian border.

Passage of freight and merchandise of all kinds across Swiss frontiers is authorized only during the working hours of full border control staffs. Trucks, automobiles and horse-drawn vehicles are limited to specified frontier roads while others are reserved for pedestrians and cyclists.

Drinking Water at Rochester, N. Y., Found to be Contaminated

Rochester, N. Y.—(P)—Harold W. Leahy, chemist for the city health bureau laboratory, said today tests of Rochester's drinking water shows "gross pollution" and that it is "definitely contaminated with sewage."

Pollution of the city's Hemlock lake water followed introduction of six million gallons of Genesee river water into the mains Wednesday afternoon and early Thursday.

Health officials ordered boiling of all drinking water. State authorities rushed vaccine to the city to check possibility of a typhoid fever outbreak.

Leahy's report came as City Manager Louis Cartwright conducted a public hearing on cause of the pollution, which disclosed that a city crew had inadvertently turned a connector valve which introduced Genesee water into the Hemlock domestic supply mains.

The state health department said that enough vaccine had been sent to Rochester, whose population is approximately 300,000, to provide 46,000 persons with first immunizations of the three treatments necessary.

Reich Bombers Raid Sheffield

Buildings Destroyed And Roads Blocked In Heavy Air Attack

London.—(P)—Sheffield, great steel center in the north of England, drew the concentrated blows of Germany's night raiders last night.

The city and the area surrounding it were acknowledged by the air ministry to have been the special targets of the Luftwaffe many hours after the objective had been identified only as a town in the north.

A number of buildings were destroyed and roads damaged or temporarily blocked, the government reported.

From early last night until early today, large formations of raiders scattered incendiary, high explosive and delayed-action bombs on the city.

Find Man Innocent of Attempted Poisoning

Menomonee, Wis.—(P)—William Schlough, 70, a retired Boyceville farmer, was freed yesterday of charges that he attempted to poison his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Schlough.

Municipal Judge Carl E. Peterson, of Menomonee, found that the evidence at the preliminary hearing was insufficient to support the charge.

Schlough was arrested in September on the complaint of his son, who charged that he and his wife had discovered poison on tomatoes and in prune juice in the refrigerator.

Howard said that poison also was found in his wife's medicine and on a piece of cake.

No testimony was offered by the defense.

Legion Chief Raps 'Bickering' Over War on Subversive Groups

Indianapolis.—(P)—Milo J. Warner of Toledo, American Legion national commander, deplores "the backstairs pandy type of bickering that has gone on among some of the servants of the people" in the federal government's drive against subversive activities.

Warner in a public statement praised both the Dies congressional committee on un-American activities and the federal bureau of investigation and said he was "interested in seeing that, so far as we are concerned, there will arise no national feeling involving personalities or politics to detract in any way from the invaluable work each of these agencies or departments is performing."

He said it was the duty of the Dies committee to direct "attention of the people of the country to subversive groups and individuals and to determine from their investigation what legislation to recommend" of the FBI "to dig out these individuals and groups and procure evidence . . . to the end that these groups and these individuals will be entirely eliminated from our body politic."

Warner urged continuance of the Dies committee and an increase in personnel of the FBI.

"We feel," he said, "that the time has arrived when extensive and vigorous prosecution in the courts is in order."

Warships Help British Army in Desert Campaign

Shells Stop Italian Effort to Reinforce Their Advance Forces

BY LARRY ALLEN

Aboard a British destroyer off Egypt — (A) — British warships, swinging into action to help the army's big push against the Italians in the western desert, have hurled tons of high explosives into the hastily-prepared shore batteries, forcing thousands of soldiers to flee in disorder toward the Libyan frontier.

Six to 15-inch shells pouring into the fascist ranks shattered attempts to reinforce advanced troops. The Italians steadily fell back under land, sea and air attacks and the retreat appeared to be fast developing into complete rout.

The destroyer on which this is being written and other units of the British navy swept over mine fields to within a half-mile of the hastily-prepared shore batteries and threw heavy fire at the Italians. The fascist army moving along the Egyptian seaboard under what British naval authorities declared to be one of the most destructive naval shelling in history.

The warships turned their big guns first upon Matkila, 15 miles east of Gazlani's advance base established at Sidi Barrani when he moved across the Egyptian border 80 days ago.

May Invade Libya
The British shattered that big armed camp, making it easier for the initial land attack.

With British sea, air and land forces combining in an attempt to blast the Italian expeditionary force off Egyptian soil, British sources declared that the offensive might be turned into a counter-invasion of Italian Libya.

Some said there was a good chance that the drive would not stop at the Egyptian-Libyan border "while the fascists are on the run."

The order to take the offensive against Marshal Graziani's legions, 70 miles inside Egypt, was a shot in the arm for the whole British imperial army of the Nile, it appeared from advice reaching me on this destroyer participating in the naval offensive.

For weeks, desert-hardened troops—Britons, Australians, New Zealanders, Indians, Poles and Frenchmen have been chafing at long inactivity.

Now, with the initiative in British hands, their hour for a grand offensive may have come.

Rome — (A) — A battle is raging between British and Italian forces in a desert sandstorm between Sidi Barrani, Egypt, and the Libyan frontier, the Italian high command reported today.

Italian warplanes, joining the battle in support of ground troops, were said to have bombed and set fire to "enemy units," presumed by observers to be British warships engaged in shelling the fascist forces from positions off the Egyptian coast.

A communique said the Italians had shot down 18 British planes and lost 12 themselves since the battle began Monday.

On the Albanian front action was said to have been limited to small, localized attacks by the Greeks, which the Italians said they had repulsed.

On the east African front, the high command said, Italian patrols acting in conjunction with the air force inflicted losses on British mechanized forces along the border of the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan. One British plane was reported shot down in flames in this action.

The communique gave no details concerning the battle on the Egyptian front except to say that Italian forces were "fighting with great gallantry" against "enemy armored columns."

Changes Mind About Death After Cold Bath

Legasport, Ind. — (A) — George Cook told police he saw this happen on the banks of the Wabash: A well dressed man about 35 tied a heavy rock around his neck and jumped 14 feet into the river. He stood for a moment shivering in water up to his knees. Then he picked up the rock, climbed back on the bank, untied the rope and walked away.

Ataturk Dead But Nation Is Guided by Him

Russian Influence Also Strong in Shaping Country's Policies

BY C. A. FARNSWORTH

New York — (A) — Turkey was a World War loser and yet a winner. Out of that conflict emerged a new nationalism, under the leadership of the late Gazi Mustafa Kemal Pasha, who changed his name and Turkey at the same time. He died as Kemal Ataturk (father of the Turks or chief Turk) on Nov. 10, 1938, at the age of 58.

Ataturk left to the guidance of his successor in the presidency, Ismet Inonu, a nation virtually changed from Oriental to Occidental.

Worship of the state and Ataturk filled the gap caused by the decay of Islamic tradition and leadership which Ataturk himself helped along.

In Ankara, where in ages past crusaders, Persians, Mongols and Tartars had marched in a procession of wars and conquest, Turkey built a modern capital to replace Istanbul (Constantinople).

A Latinized alphabet was substituted for Arabic. Felt hats took the place of the fez. Family names were changed. The harem vanished. Women dropped the veil and some went to congress.

Borrowed from Others
From Switzerland, the Turkish Republic borrowed its civil code to supplant religious laws of Islam.

From France, Turkey borrowed her "second language." French plays dominated the Turkish stage. Three French newspapers were established in Istanbul.

From Germany, Turkey got the model for her army.

From Britain, she learned how to build her small navy.

From the United States and others, she took planes, and tips on how to fly them.

From every industrial country, she borrowed ideas on how to industrialize Turkey.

The strides toward industrialization, of course, have been great but not complete. Turkey remains essentially an agricultural country.

The strides in education were as great but Turkey still has a high rate of illiteracy, although reduced from 81 per cent to 53 per cent or less.

Still Far Behind
Advances in agriculture likewise were notable, but as late as 1932, when the republic was 10 years old, four-fifths of the plows in Turkey were still wooden blades, pulled through the fields by oxen and buffalo.

Even so, Turkey, "the sick man of Europe," had become a vigorous young republic which turned strongly to national defense. Every man and woman between 16 and 60 is subject to military call and a standing army was established. One thousand planes become Turkey's goal in the air.

With one foot in Europe and the other in Asia Minor, Turkey straddles the Straits of the Dardanelles which, with the Sea of Marmara and the Bosphorus, link the Black sea to the Mediterranean—Russia's only outlet to the Mediterranean, by the way.

Control of the Dardanelles has been a great strategists' headache for centuries. It was a World War pawn and it is that again. The British wanted to get through in the World War to bolster imperial Russia. Now the Germans want to cross to get out.

Traditionally, soviet Russia is Turkey's big friend. The red revolutionists who toppled imperial Russia when she was defeated by Germany in the World War would have nothing to do with allied plans

ITALIANS TAKEN PRISONERS BY BRITISH—Guarded by British soldiers, Italian prisoners captured in Libya are marched out to work. This picture was made earlier in the war in Africa, before the western Egyptian offensive in which the British claimed capture of at least 20,000 Italian prisoners, near the Libyan border.

British Gain Edge in Mediterranean Area

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

New York — (A) — The heavy defeat administered to the Italians at Sidi Barrani by British and allied forces, coupled with the fascist debacle in Greece, has vastly altered the complexion of the battle of the Mediterranean and consequently of the war.

We can say that the advantage in this all-important Mediterranean area has, for the moment at least, swung to the British.

Moreover, whether they are able to capitalize their victory at Sidi Barrani and invade Italian Libya, the fact remains that already they have struck a telling blow at the fascist power of attack in Egypt and all northern Africa.

It is important to keep in mind that Mussolini's purpose in invading Egypt was to drive through to the key position of the Suez canal, thereby smashing Britain's grip on Egypt. Success of this operation might have spelled the end for England.

And defeat of the British was becoming increasingly necessary for another reason: the British blockade has cut communications between Italy and its forces in Africa, thereby creating a serious situation for the armies which had no way of replenishing supplies or getting reinforcements.

Life-line Severed
Not only was Graziani's life-line severed, but so were those of the forces in Italy's east African possessions.

Mussolini looked to Graziani to remove this menace. That hope vanished for the time being with the defeat at Sidi Barrani, and the fascist African armies face a precarious existence.

Already the moral effect of the victory is apparent in many countries. The people of Britain, hard pressed by the German bombing and submarine campaign, have been tremendously cheered. Quite the reverse is true in Italy where the seeds of the recent Italian reverses in Greece and Africa are beginning to become known.

Rome newspapers are warning the public against "false news of imaginary catastrophes" for Italian arms. They charge that British agents are spreading propaganda in Italy in an effort to destroy Italian for carving up Turkey and thus won the Turks' friendship.

What Russia will do in any German-Turkish showdown is problematical. Will Russia come to Turkey's aid? Or will she stand aside, under some commitment to the nazis, to give Germany a "right-of-way" across the Dardanelles?

4 Per Cent Dividend

The Appleton Building and Loan association directors voted a four per cent dividend on the last six months at a meeting last night.

The association had previously notified its investors that a three per cent dividend would be voted, but business conditions made it possible to add an extra one per cent.

The additional one per cent represents earnings of $8,254 to investors, George H. Beckley, manager, said today.

The Eau Claire pupils presented Zona Gale's "Neighbors," and the Westby cast staged Dorothy C. Allen's "When the Sun Rises" Superintendent Charles A. Jahr of Whitewater presided.

The players, their directors and Prof. Mitchell attended a breakfast conference at the Memorial Union today to discuss the plays.

Testifies 'I Am' Followers Told to Cash in Insurance

Los Angeles — (A) — A former leader of "I Am" classes told a federal jury trying 10 leaders of the movement on mail-fraud charges that devotees were advised to cash their insurance policies in view of forthcoming "cataclysms."

Mrs. Edna W. Ballard, widow of Guy W. Ballard, founder of the movement, their son, Donald Ballard, and eight others are on trial.

In 1934, Mrs. Ballard got to talking about these horrible cataclysms which were due and told us that the big cataclysm would pop in September, 1936," Mrs. Jane Ferguson testified.

"First the cataclysm was to be in the east, then in the west, and then it was just sort of postponed indefinitely—but Mrs. Ballard talked of that cataclysm time and time again."

"Mrs. Ballard told of the necessity of cashing insurance policies, and in one case told me to inform one of my students to cash only one of his policies and to keep on paying on another. It didn't have much longer to run."

From "I Am" publications identified by Mrs. Ferguson, United States Attorney Norman Neukom read predictions of "the devastation due America" during which it was declared the entire Atlantic seaboard would slide into the ocean.

Eau Claire, Westby
Win Forensic Honors

Madison — (A) — Class A banners were awarded to high school dramatic groups from Eau Claire and Westby in state finals of the Wisconsin Forensic association's annual contest here last night.

Stevens Point and Columbus won B ratings and Muscoda a C rating. Prof. Ronald E. Mitchell, of the University of Wisconsin speech department, was the judge. Players were awarded gold, silver and bronze medals according to team ranking.

The Eau Claire pupils presented Zona Gale's "Neighbors," and the Westby cast staged Dorothy C. Allen's "When the Sun Rises" Superintendent Charles A. Jahr of Whitewater presided.

The players, their directors and Prof. Mitchell attended a breakfast conference at the Memorial Union today to discuss the plays.

War Situation Today

British Report Capture of Thousands of New Prisoners

With new thousands of Italian prisoners falling into their hands, Britain's desert armies were reported today tentatively considering a counter-offensive into Italian Libya as they battled the retreating Italians in a stinging sandstorm.

British sources said there was a good chance that the five-day-old blitzkrieg drive launched by Lieutenant General Sir Henry Maitland Wilson would not stop at the Egyptian-Libyan border "while the fascists are on the run."

Meanwhile, authoritative quarters in Rome discredited any possibility of an Italian armistice with Greece, asserting that Italy would defend her lines in both Albania and Libya all winter, come what may—and carry out Premier Mussolini's threat to "break Greece's back, whether in two months or twelve."

A British communique said the 20,000 Italian prisoners already announced had now been "increased by several thousands" in the five-day-old battle along the Mediterranean sea coast. Two more generals were reported taken, raising the total to five.

Nazi pilots reported smashing at England's big steel center of Sheffield, 140 miles north of London, in a "great" bombing assault overnight, while on the diplomatic front, speculation arose that the duke of Windsor may become the new British ambassador to the United States.

In a tragic sidelight of the war-swept world, 200 Jewish refugees, en route from Bulgaria to Palestine, were reported drowned in the Sea of Marmara when their ship broke to pieces.

The duke of Windsor, former King Edward VIII, took off from Miami, Fla., in a United States navy plane "for an undisclosed destination on important official business"—presumably to meet President Roosevelt cruising somewhere in the Caribbean sea.

Berlin reported hundreds of German warplanes engaged in the attack of Sheffield, famed cutlery manufacturing city of 500,000.

Returning Nazi pilots said the assault, carried out in bright moonlight, surpassed in devastating fury the town-smashing assault on Coventry several weeks ago.

"Reports areas yet incomplete but do not suggest heavy casualties," a British communique said.

Premier Mussolini's high command—still silent on the fall of Sidi Barrani and the reported capture of thousands of Italian prisoners—declared:

"The battle (in Egypt) continued violently between our troops, who are fighting with great gallantry, and enemy armored columns.

"Our squadrons of fighters and bombing planes, despite sandstorms, flew without interruption from dawn to sundown, bombing and setting fire to enemy units."

Reports from Egypt said the British army was gaining momentum in its drive westward toward the Libyan frontier, pushing Marshal Rodolfo Graziani's army before it.

Official sources in Cairo said the number of prisoners probably would far exceed the total of 20,000 claimed in a British communique yesterday, while London estimated the figure might reach 40,000.

British commentators said continued reverses in north Africa might seriously affect Italian resistance in Ethiopia, where, they asserted, morale had been bolstered by Mussolini's assurances that the Egyptian campaign would result in speedy capture of the Suez canal.

Possession of the Suez would give the Italians a direct route to send supplies and equipment to Ethiopia, where the British commentators intimated they are sorely needed.

Reports from Athens said the Greeks had captured strategically important heights northeast of Tepeleni on the central Albanian battlefield and were driving in two directions toward Valona, one of the three Albanian ports still held by the Italians.

Italian attempts to counter-attack in the Tepeleni sector and elsewhere have failed, a Greek spokesman said.

Rumors circulated persistently in Berlin that Mussolini would visit the German capital soon, but informed Nazis said the reports apparently grew out of foreign speculation that something was afoot because of Italian military reverses.

Prosecutions Under State Securities Law are Completed

MINNEAPOLIS — (A) — Prosecution securities law cases growing out of activities of men connected with the defunct Harry M. Lenartz Investment Co. and its two affiliates was completed yesterday with a quittal of one defendant and finding of three others.

William F. Pergande, secretary-treasurer of the investment concern was acquitted of charges of aiding, consenting to and directing sales of unregistered securities.

Joseph F. Berns pleaded guilty to charges of reselling unregistered securities and was fined $250.

John B. Lenartz was fined $4 when found guilty of selling unregistered securities and giving misleading statements concerning the future worth. His brother, Harry M. Lenartz, president of the firm is serving a one to three year term in Waupun prison for similar violations.

William M. Dunphy, vice-president of the company, was fined $500 on charges similar to those against John Lenartz.

Joseph H. O'Neill, a company salesman, has appealed a $250 fine assessed last week.

Judge Otto H. Breidenbach presided over the cases yesterday.

Midwest GOP Leaders
Seek Coordination in Legislative Problems

Chicago — (A) — Co-ordination state legislative problems in the middle west will be one of the subjects discussed at a conference of Republican leaders here tomorrow and Sunday, Ben L. Berve, chairman of the Republican state central committee of Illinois, said today.

Other subjects will include the midwest's part in the national leadership of the party, the importance of a co-ordinated educational program to advance the principles of the party, and the speeding up of national defense machinery, he reported.

Berve, who invited Republican chairmen of 11 states to attend the meeting, said the sessions would take the form of a round-table discussion, with himself as chairman.

Party leaders were expected from Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

RIVERVIEW PATIENT CARVES FOR HOBBY—To pass the time, Carlton Bleck, a patient at Riverview sanatorium for the last three years, carved the covered wagon and figures of horses and pioneers, using only a jackknife and a few chisels. The carving, from the horses' heads to the back of the wagon is about 2½ feet long. A portion of the money collected through the sale of Christmas seals is used in rehabilitation work at the sanatorium. (Post-Crescent Photo.)

Tuberculosis Patients Get Help From Yule Seal Funds

A portion of the funds collected pass their time while they are in the annual sale of Christmas seals is used in the rehabilitation of patients in sanatoriums all over the state.

An example of some of the work done by patients is a hand carved wagon by two horses, and a pioneer woman and man made by Carlton Bleck, a patient at Riverview sanatorium for the last three years.

Bleck was graduated from Clintonville High school and was employed for a time as a tinsmith at a shop in Clintonville. For the last two years he has amused himself by carving. A year ago he carved a coach and horses which now is owned by a Clintonville man. Bleck's friends in Clintonville furnish him with materials.

The carving, pictured with this story, is complete in every detail including the leather harnesses for the horses. It is mounted on a board about 2½ feet long and neatly painted.

Club Makes Yule Wreaths for High School Instructors

As the Christmas holidays draw near, the Nature Study club of Appleton High school is once again preparing wreaths for the doors of the various class rooms as its gift to the instructors. The tradition began with the new building two years ago.

Richard Van Ryzin is supervising the committee which is fashioning the wreaths, while Mary Bongers has charge of the group making the stars to serve as decoration. Assistants are Joan Baurain, James Court, Robert DeWitt, Marilyn Drier, Gneva Duhm, Stella Farquhar, Margaret Forster, William Koerner, Eleanor Leisner, Jerry Rehfeldt, Roland Rehfeldt, Carl Sallentine, Rita Schweitzer, Jess Thompson, Bonnie Van Handel, Elaine Weiss, Lois Deschler, Robert Bailey, Gerald Ardell, Betty Weiss and Robert Hendricks.

A new feature of the club's Christmas activities this year is the cards which the photography group is making. Greetings carry pictures of various members of the club at work. Harvey Gyi, biology instructor, is faculty adviser.

Science Students to See Series of Movies

Utilizing the motion picture projector purchased from the proceeds of the magazine drive in 1939, the social science department will present a series of films on current topics to students enrolled in the social sciences. On Dec. 18 a film entitled "The Holy Land" will be shown. "The Hit and Run Driver" is scheduled for March 20; "Good Neighbors," April 29; "Sharecroppers," May 5; and "Politics and Civil Service," May 13.

Kaws Ready for Tonight's Clash With Bulldogs

Coach Krumm Picks Starting Lineup for Conference Contest

Kaukauna — High school cagers wound up practices for tonight's clash with New London yesterday afternoon, engaging in a scrimmage with the second stringers.

Coach Guy Krumm's cagers showed a smoother floor performance than in previous practices and appear set to turn back the challenge of the Bulldogs, who with Kaukauna and Shawano are leading the Northwestern conference's western division.

Krumm will start Bill Alger at center, Karl Giordana and Junior Swedberg at guard and Bill Tesin and Willis Raquette at the forward post. The visitors' offense is built around Harold Puer, New London's all-around athlete who has been a thorn in the side of the Kaws for four years, and Red Watkins, tall center.

Mrs. Peter Melchior Succumbs at Sheboygan

Kaukauna — Mrs. Peter Melchior, 37, daughter-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Melchior, Sixth street, died Thursday in Sheboygan after a lingering illness. Survivors are the widower, four daughters, Dolores, Bernice, Marion, Shirley; four brothers, Rudolph, Arthur, Robert and Alfred, Milwaukee, and one sister, Miss Esther Scholbe, Milwaukee. Funeral services will be held at 9 o'clock Monday morning in Sheboygan with burial in St. Mary's cemetery, Kaukauna.

Stores to Remain Open Beginning Monday Night

Kaukauna — Kaukauna stores will remain open until 9 o'clock evenings beginning Monday, according to L. A. Gerend, chairman of the retail committee of Kaukauna Advancement association. The practice will be followed until Christmas.

Ice Rinks Planned for Park, Nicolet Schools

Kaukauna — Two ice rinks will be constructed soon in the city, at Park and Nicolet school playgrounds, according to the board of public works, in whose hands the council placed selection of the sites. Originally it was planned to have one large rink on the library grounds.

World War Officers Brushing Up on Modern Army Tactics

Fort Benning, Ga. — (AP) — National guard general officers who led troops with the American expeditionary force in the World war made intensive study today of new methods for conducting warfare in a program of demonstrations continuing night and day.

"The army had nothing like it in 1917," said Colonel Julius Adler, commander of the 113th infantry, who served as captain with the 308th infantry in the AEF. "The army is doing a far better job now than then."

Colonel Adler, general manager of the New York Times and publisher of the Chattanooga (Tenn.) Times, had finished a gruelling grind requiring three expeditions into wooded areas around this huge army reservation.

The course is designed by the faculty of the infantry school to cover every phase of operation of a modern army.

Almost the entire roster of general officers inducted into active service from the National guard, including about 50 brigadier and major generals, are following a schedule arranged through Brigadier General Courtney Hodges, infantry school commandant.

The army commanders, who bunk in wooded barracks in much the same manner as young student officers, and get out of bed at sunrise, represent numerous walks of civilian life.

Milwaukee's assistant superintendent of schools, General Paul B. Clemens, is tramping the dusty unpaved roadways and wood trails in this intensive parade of military methods.

Statistics show that it costs a department about 40 cents each time an item is returned.

Hitler Speech Ought to Spur U. S. Defense Efforts—Pegler

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—The Germans took full advantage of the quadrennial madness of the stupid Americans, but, though we lost precious time and our resolution wobbled, Hitler has now said the words which should snap the spell. From the German point of view they were much better left unsaid. To us they should be a kick in the pants.

It has often been observed that the reason why the patriotic German is so brutal, treacherous and selfish is to be found in his inability to imagine that any other nation has any right which conflicts with any interest of Germany. That has been demonstrated in the attacks on the little nations whose military menace was so puny that when Hitler struck they were obliterated in, so to speak, a day. The moral rottenness of the German national spirit gained much in these actions, but the expression of that vice unwittingly given in Hitler's speech to his robots will show a loss.

In that address Hitler was unable to imagine that the people of the United States might be capable of patriotic effort or that their lethargy could be due to anything but that which he would call civic degeneracy and fear of Hitler. He certainly must have been advised that, from a state of alarm last spring, the Americans had spun off into a domestic spat over the presidency which monopolized their interest to the almost total neglect of the menace of Adolf Hitler. The election over, the Americans still dithered in the throes of an awful political hangover. A comparative few young men went off to military camps, some of which were unprepared to house them decently; the two big labor organizations met in rival conventions to exchange sneers, the roarmament program bogged down and the president of the United States now found conditions so relaxed that he could crank up a warship and go off on a cruise.

A more favorable condition, from Hitler's standpoint, it would be impossible to imagine, for it is not denied that this nation must be Britain's arsenal, shipyard and arm, not some time but now. Hitler realized this better than the Americans, who had begun to mumble again about Britain's old sins against Ireland and the Boers, forgetting that Hitler was the enemy of the United States. It was not to forget, to excuse neglect, laziness and greed on the ground that Britain had called this country Uncle Shylock—on the ground that, anyway, European wars were an old story and the Atlantic was 3,000 miles wide.

Warning Never Has Been Sounded So Openly

Charles Lindbergh had said that we could live on friendly terms with Hitler victorious, and there were those who clutched at that hope, too. So, altogether, but for the innate evil of a predatory breed whose historic brutality is so wholly packaged in the character of one bad man this nation might have snoozed on. The time surely was ripe to let the Americans drowse, but Hitler, fortunately, took this hour to declare that, contrary to his past preaching, this was a war against capitalism, a war between two worlds, two philosophies, his and ours, naming the United States

137 New Homes Since Jan. 1

Building Estimate In City Is $63,293 During Last Month

Permits for 13 new homes during November brought the total for the year to 137, according to John A. Pierre, city building inspector.

The building estimate last month was $63,293 compared to $75,575 for November a year ago. Thirteen permits for new homes valued at $55,700 were issued compared to 13 valued at $57,050 in November a year ago.

Nine remodeling jobs figured at $5,220 were started last month and permits for seven private garages valued at $1,333 were granted. There were four miscellaneous projects valued at $920.

The Eleventh ward led the building parade with construction valued at $14,150; the Twelfth ward was second with $13,930; and the Sixth ward was third with $12,220 in new building.

Cafeteria Shows $7.39 Profit in November

The cafeteria at Appleton High school showed a profit of $7.39 during November, according to Margaret Casey, dietician. Income totaled $513.29 while expenses were $505.90. The sum of $184.45 was realized from the sale of candy. A total of 1,839 meals were served during the month. A portion of the salary of the dietician is charged against teaching expense.

Gets Permit to Build Home on Fremont St.

Margaret La Chapelle, 518 N. Division street, was given a permit Thursday by the city building inspector to erect a house at 822 E. Fremont street. The home will be 24 feet square and the garage 12 by 20 feet in size. Cost will be about $2,500.

Dr. E. F. Mielke was given a permit to move a house on S. Connell street at the river to 1803 S. Connell street. Remodeling will cost approximately $2,500.

51 Non-Attendance Cases Investigated

Fifty-one cases of non-attendance were investigated by J. G. Pfeil, truant officer, during November, according to his monthly report. Seven were truants, 15 were absent because of parental negligence and 29 for other causes. The truant officer found four cases of truancy in 187 visits for various reasons.

The Case of Lorraine

The brutality and shortsightedness of the Nazis was never better signaled than in their abrupt treatment of the province of Lorraine.

Gauleiter Buerckel simply announced that Lorraine had been annexed to the Saar to create the province of Westmark, and thus to become "German inhabited forever."

Coincident with the announcement, trains of Lorrainers started moving toward France, and another exodus was on. French inhabitants, to the number of 70,000, were torn from their homes and loaded into cars with little ceremony. Another problem, painful and difficult, was created for France, shrinking in resources but extending in responsibilities.

That ruthless expulsion, premature as it was heartless, must be chalked up on the wall as another blunder of Berlin. And Berlin hasn't made very many blunders in this war, certainly few in comparison to World War No. 1.

Shocking disregard of the personal, family or property rights of tens of thousands of people will, better than any denunciation English orators may form, crystallize in the eyes of the world the cold and pitiless orders that may be expected, if Hitler is eventually victor. Translated, the world now sees the expression "living room," so constantly employed by the Nazis, as a suffocation of room for others.

The German high command, certainly clever and intelligent, must be having a difficult time holding back the hot headed factions that are so important when it is necessary to get work done, but so harmful to a regime which wishes above everything else to conceal its purposes until it has the final and undisputed power of enforcing them. The first decision of Hitler not to submit any peace terms to France until the conclusion of the war was wise beyond words. The present abandonment of that decision in the case of Lorraine may be a concession to the hot heads and those others who want to transfer immediately "living room" into an asset in hand. We may be sure the English will reveal to the world the distress and agony accompanying the transfer of an entire people from a province they have inhabited for centuries.

And the principal place where it may work havoc to the Nazi cause is in solidifying General DeGaulle's "Free France," attracting thousands to his banner, assisting in securing a sufficient army to take over all France's extensive colonies and perhaps to hand over her still formidable fleet.

Cheese for Christmas Gifts

Two and one-half pounds of the finest quality American cheese attractively packaged is a Christmas gift that should be welcomed in any home in the world. Considering the fact that a package of this great delicacy can be sent to any point in the United States at a cost of about one dollar, we would be hard pressed to suggest a better gift for persons living outside of Wisconsin.

The Wisconsin Natural Cheese marketing association in cooperation with the Department of Agriculture and Markets, the Junior Chambers of Commerce, and grocers throughout Wisconsin have provided the packages of select cheese. They have apparently taken every precaution to assure only first quality cheese to the purchasers of these packages.

Many firms in northeastern Wisconsin send out holiday greetings accompanied by a small gift such as an ash tray or an envelope opener that is for the most part without distinction. During recent years more and more of these firms have charged from the gadget gift to the package of cheese, and it is to be hoped that this trend will continue. Here in the cheese center of the world the appropriate gift in such instances should be the Christmas package of cheese. It is more than a gift for it is an advertisement for Wisconsin's leading product. If the proper cooperation is secured we can have a sampling of the nation with a product the sale of which is important to everyone in the state.

Captain Hornblower

No book of adventure in recent years has so won the admiration of American men as Forester's "Captain Horatio Hornblower."

In addition to Forester's great storytelling ability and his most human delineations of character, the factor which makes "Captain Hornblower" particularly valuable is the minutely accurate historical background of the story and the picture it gives of European life during the Napoleonic war era.

It makes the book particularly interesting today when the British Navy is again facing a supreme test over its control of the seven seas as it did in the period when the fictitious Captain Hornblower was helping found the Royal Navy.

Hornblower is pictured as a British sea captain in the days of the Napoleonic wars when England stood practically alone against the European continent then under the tyrannical rule of Napoleon as it is now ruled by Hitler. Then as now the British were blockading the entire continent, conveying the important merchant ships to and from the British Isles and seeking to entice Napoleon's navy out into the open for a decisive battle, meanwhile harrying his land movements as best they could.

They fought then in wooden battle-ships armed by tiers of cannon, cannon which had to be muzzle loaded and swabbed. They fought under canvas, when a captain's skill at maneuvering for position in the wind to bring his broadsides to bear won and lost his battles. These battles between individual ships weren't settled until the ships had raked each other many times at point-blank range and one ship's masts were swept away and the hulk left helpless.

Captain Hornblower in the book becomes the popular hero of the British empire as Nelson had been in the past because he had the mental and physical discipline to regulate all his actions by logical, mathematical calculations, eliminating personal feelings and intuitions entirely except from his own subconscious mind. He went into every battle fearing his own judgment, but he went in with a bold front as if he had the full courage of his convictions, and he won because his judgment was sound.

One exploit of Hornblower's is especially enlightening in comparison with a maneuver carried out by the present British fleet only a few days ago, the shelling of Italian troops moving along the Mediterranean coast into Egypt. It was an attack from the Mediterranean by Hornblower's two-decker battleship on a French army moving along a road on the coast of Spain in which the whole infantry unit was practically wiped out.

When Hornblower sighted the column marching along the road he coasted in as close to shore as possible to a point where the road ran near the water's edge and secured almost point-blank range. The troops that never caught a two-decker's broadside before, believed they had nothing to fear.

"The forty-one balls from the Sutherland's broadside and cannonades swept the road from side to side," Forester writes. "Fifty yards of the first part of the column had been cut to fragments. Whole files had been swept away; the survivors stood dazed and stupid. The gun trucks roared as the guns were run out again, and the Sutherland lurched once more at the second broadside. There was another gap in the column now, just behind the first."

Down the Sutherland roared on the rest of the column, emasculating it as it went. Then it turned about, swept up the whole length of the column again, turned and came back for a third sweep at any groups still left standing. The men who were not killed had beaten it for the bush beyond the road. That army was probably never fully reorganized again.

This is but one of 40 such adventures with which the book is crammed. Hornblower in the end has to fight it out all alone with four French warships seeking to break through the blockade, an action somewhat similar to the battle which raged recently at Dakar. He disabled all of them but is forced to surrender his own ship. He is captured and is to be taken to Paris to face Napoleon's wrath.

But Hornblower's ingenuity fashions him an escape, and after a year's wandering through France he makes it back to England—stealing a captured English vessel to cross the channel. Typically, Hornblower is frightened by his reception. He hates being made a political hero to rekindle loyalty in the government; he dislikes being made a lord with the inevitable curtailing of his much-prized freedom of action.

But he continues to surmount his private fears and dislikes and later as an admiral begins to initiate in the British navy the reforms in the treatment of men and in the mechanics of battle which in those days began to make the British Navy the power it is today.

The book is a stimulant to those who for many months have been hoping that Britain will withstand the assault of Hitler but fearing that she will not. When one realizes that the strength of the British as a fighting people is built on the tradition of such men as Hornblower one feels they will never surrender while they have life left, and that they will make the best use of life and loyalty and ingenuity while they are still fighting.

Captain Horatio Hornblower may be viewed as the English version of "Mein Kampf." But it will live longer.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY ROUND

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

Washington—Few questions of foreign policy have aroused more intensity of feeling among members of the Roosevelt cabinet than the proposed credit "some cabinet members call it 'gift'" of $100,000,000 to the Franco government in Spain.

Those who champion it the most ardently are U. S. Ambassador Weddell in Spain and Assistant Secretary of State Breckenridge Long, both of whom, incidentally, married wealthy St. Louis wives, and both of whom now seem to have sold their Spanish "gift" idea to Cordell Hull.

Those who most ardently oppose the hundred millions to Franco are Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and Secretary of the Interior Ickes. Morgenthau, as a director of the Export-Import bank, is in a strategic position to block the "gift" and may do so.

His fear is that any large loan to Franco would rouse American public opinion against the more worthwhile credits which are now in process of negotiation—$100,000,000 to China and $100,000,000 to Argentina. The Argentine credit is considered vital to the Good Neighbor policy, while the credit to China is to help continue resistance against Japan.

Purpose of the Spanish credit, according to the state department career boys, is to keep Franco out of the war. It has leaked out, however, that in his talks with Ambassador Weddell, Franco has refused to give a definite pledge to stay out of the war, and will only go so far as to say that he "does not foresee war."

Real fact is that Franco will have to go into the war on the side of Germany whenever Hitler wants him to, and no advance pledge of any kind would be worth the paper it is written on. Hitler already has about 20,000 troops stationed in Spain, and one reason he has them there is not only to keep an eye on Franco, but because there is so much political unrest in Spain that Franco faces revolution.

Spanish jails are crowded with political prisoners; Republican sentiment is stronger than ever. Meanwhile food is more scarce even than during the long Spanish civil war, one reason being the fact that Franco has had to send large shipments of grain to Germany to pay for the arms sold him by Hitler during the civil war.

So now the state department wants the U. S. treasury to compensate Franco for the food payments he has had to send to Hitler.

THE SOCIAL WHIRL

After a bad beginning, Washington's social season is swinging into the old glamour tempo. During the autumn, that unique group of women who make a profession of running the big social functions of the town, was deeply depressed. They feared that the war would send this year's business into the cellar.

One debutante, Miss Louisa Clement, gave the $1,500 which her grandmother had allotted for the coming-out party to British aid. This was fine for Britain, but bad news for the social business.

Then the tide began to turn. A fortnight after the election the wealthy Mrs. William Laird Dunlop staged the Black and White ball. That broke the ice. War-born nervousness began to disappear. Wavering dames decided to go through with daughters' parties after all.

And now restraints seem definitely lifted and the parties are getting really lavish. Champagne is being uncorked with gay abandon, and the professional social secretaries are happily amazed. "It's going to be the gayest season in years," they say, "gayest than anything since the depression."

WAR CREDIT BARRIERS

Merely repeal of the Johnson act won't clear the way for financial aid to Britain. There is another hurdle that seems to have been generally forgotten—Section 7 of the revised neutrality act passed by congress just a year ago.

This clause extends the credit ban to all countries, regardless of whether they are in default or not, which have been officially declared to be at war. By its language the section makes it unlawful for any "person" in the United States to "purchase, sell, or exchange bonds, securities, or other obligations" of a belligerent.

However, legal experts are in doubt whether these prohibitions apply to the government. Neither law specifically says so. Their only express ban is against private citizens engaged in foreign financing.

The Johnson act, for example, explicitly defines "person" to mean an "individual, partnership, corporation, or association other than a public corporation . . . created by congress, or a corporation in which the government has a controlling interest." Some legal authorities interpret this as clear proof that congress had no intention of including the government in the ban.

They contend that it would be permissible for a federal lending agency, like the Export-Import bank, to extend credits to Britain without violating the Johnson act. The question has never been tested in court. However, the administration has no intention of extending a government loan without congressional approval.

In private discussion President Roosevelt has voiced the view that giving war credits is a decision of such grave national moment that it should be made only by congress. It will be necessary for congress to consider the Neutrality act as well as the Johnson act, for the repeal of the latter alone would not be enough.

The Italians' confidential explanation for the poor showing of their navy compared with the British is interesting.

They point out that their navy was built with the idea that it would oppose the French, never the British. Therefore most of the guns were concentrated in the forward part of their battleships and cruisers, on the assumption that the speedier Italian vessels would take the offensive against the older and slower French fleet.

But in combat with the modern British navy, the Italian vessels have had to fight while steaming toward their home bases, therefore must fire from the rear. And this part of their vessels lacks adequate armament.

Whether or not this explanation is correct, there is no question that the British navy has virtually cut the Egyptian expeditionary force of General Graziani off from his overseas supplies. Graziani, with the reputation of being one of Italy's most brilliant desert strategists, has been marooned in the desert of northwest Egypt for over two months.

Despite the irate demands of Il Duce that Graziani advance on Suez, his army simply lacked sufficient water and other supplies to move. And eventually the British took the offensive themselves.

A Bystander In Washington

BY JACK STINNETT

Washington—This story might be called "How NOT To Become a Successful Senator, or Five Years in the Life of Rush D. Holt."

If ever a young man apparently spiked a brilliant Senatorial career by fighting tooth and nail for his convictions and refusing ever to compromise with those who stood against him, it was Senator Holt, the West Virginia Democrat. Elected in 1934, the bespectacled "baby senator" came to Washington and had to wait nearly four months for his 30th birthday, June 19, 1935, before he could, under the Constitution, take his seat.

If ever a freshman Senator got a send-off, it was young Holt. From the comparative obscurity of a seat in the Virginia legislature, he leaped overnight to become a national figure—a mere youth for whom many a Senatorial graybeard predicted great things.

In one of his first press interviews, the curly-haired, brown-eyed Senator-elect laughingly told a reporter: "You know, I'm a dangerous man. I'd like to cut utility rates. Say, do you know what a conservative is? (I hear they don't like me.) Well, a conservative is somebody who worships long dead radicals. If they had Thomas Jefferson here today, they'd deport him. That's right!"

Behind that ear-to-ear grin and that statement was bare-knuckled Rush Holt, who in the next five years was to cause more smoke on the Senate floor than any man in recent years, with the exception of the late Huey Long.

He Started Soon

Almost before he had warmed his Senate seat, he was in a row with the party that had elected him and in less than two years, the Senate patronage committee singled him out for punishment by taking his patronage away. His "misdeemeanors" by that time had mounted to what any old-line party man would consider a staggering total.

He waged a filibuster against the first Guffey coal bill (which cost him the support of West Virginia coal miners and John L. Lewis) by reading to the Senate for hours, Aesop's Fables.

He attacked the WPA. He opposed the re-election of his Democratic colleague, Senator M. M. Neely. He was a keynote speaker at Father Coughlin's social justice convention in Cleveland and held "a conference" with Republican presidential nominee Alf Landon when the 1936 campaign was at fever heat. After election, he declared Congress should get an opinion from the Attorney General whether the sale of Democratic campaign books wasn't a violation of the corrupt practices act.

There was hardly a New Deal measure that reared its head that Senator Holt didn't lambast. The WPA, the National Labor Relations Board, the Home Owners Loan Corp., the federal housing plan, the supreme court revision proposal, the Third Term, all got their share of his blistering oratory.

Field Day On Defense

Then came national defense and Senator Holt really went to town. The other day, Senator Holt had inserted in the Congressional Record, 25 solid pages of small type which were a compilation of speeches and statements he has made since the administration launched its present policy of national defense. Hammering constantly on the note that we were being led into war, Senator Holt fought his party and those who voted with it every step of the way.

Last summer, when Senator Holt came up for re-nomination in the West Virginia primaries, he ran a poor third. When the new congress convened in January, Sen. Elect Harley M. Kilgore will take over the seat of the one-term "baby senator."

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO

Friday, Dec. 12, 1930
Alvin Woelcher was reelected master councillor of John F. Rose chapter, Order of Eastern Star. Melvin Wegner again was chosen senior councillor and William Buxton was chosen junior councillor.

Coon-Sander original Night Hawks were coming to the Cinderella ballroom Dec. 18.

Approximately $550 was subscribed to the American Red Cross by Appleton people during the annual roll call. The county total was expected to reach $1,000, about $800 short of the 1930 quota.

25 YEARS AGO

Friday, Dec. 17, 1915
Dancing on ice skates was the latest fashionable amusement. It had taken New York by storm and was expected to sweep the country.

William Schmalling, a farmer living in the town of Center, had purchased a 60-acre farm owned by W. J. Gore which adjoined his land for $2,000.

Christmas readings were on the programs of most of the city schools that day, it being the last day before the annual Christmas vacation. Schools were to reopen Jan. 3.

New Swedish Resources

More Bad News for the Sacred Cow

Under the Capitol Dome

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—It has been noted elsewhere that the 1941 legislature, more than any other in a long time, will have a leadership composed of exceptional young men, and a rank and file membership in which political infants will be unusually numerous.

To some that will show that young politicians in Wisconsin have been especially skillful or energetic lately, or that the electorate is showing a preference for young men. To others, more thoughtful perhaps, it indicates either a lessening respect for the importance of legislative offices among the electorate, or a dearth of candidacies of established, successful men with qualifications for leadership in public affairs.

The latter view is held by many of the most respectable and intelligent of the adult politicians who remain in public life today in the state.

One cause for the phenomenon, advanced by such men as Lt. Gov. Walter S. Goodland and others of the generation which molded the state government a generation ago, may be the legislative act 10 years ago which raised the compensation for members of the legislature.

As one keen and experienced observer of state politics expressed it recently:

"In the old days senators and assemblies were paid $500 per session, scarcely enough for living costs in the capital. It barred the workingman, and the man with slender means, of course, from running for the legislature. But at the same time it represented a challenge to men with a competence, a sense of civic duty and responsibility, and men of ability to represent their communities in Madison."

"Then the legislature raised the salaries of members to $100 a month and it became a job."

"As a job it was sought by candidates who had particular right to be chosen as representatives of their districts, men who were attracted by the $100 pay check once a month for two years. It looked good to small-time politicians, beginning lawyers, defeated county office-holders."

"At the same time the change in the character of the position in the public mind discouraged the old style legislative representative from competing. There are many good men left, of course, but the calibre of the legislature as a whole has declined."

EFFECT OF THE PRIMARY

That kind of discussion just now fits in significantly with another which has been heard with increasing frequency in recent months. It is perhaps not important now, but it may be soon that some of the best brains in Wisconsin politics are known to doubt the efficiency of the direct and open primary system of nominating candidates for office, a system about which the state has grown used to boasting during several decades.

It is being argued, here and there in spots that count, that a modification of the primary system—with a retention of the democratic "any one can run idea," however—might serve to produce better candidates for the highest offices in the state. Some of these men, including friends of the Heil administration, point out that Julius Heil's election in 1938 was a political fluke. In a

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

ATTENTION TO ELIMINATION
Many correspondents, commenting on the fact that little medicine is suggested in this column, tell me that they, too, think people take too much medicine and then explain that they have found that if one eats the right kind of food and pays attention to elimination he generally keeps pretty well.

If it were only to carp I'd let it pass, but for health's sake I must take issue with the latter part of the program. By paying attention to elimination, I take it, these correspondents mean keeping on hand physic of some kind and taking some of it whenever they think elimination is not what it should be.

There may be indications for laxatives or cathartics in the absence of a physician but, honestly, I can't think of one offhand. Certainly, there is no sane reason or excuse for playing the alimentary tract with physic of any kind as a regular habit or even as a part of the treatment of a minor illness or a threatened illness.

This is not just crazy theory. I prescribed and administered plenty of cathartics in my early years of practice. Then I broke the habit and thereafter patients got along as well or a little better without the constant nagging. I used to think an occasional dose of this or that laxative advisable and took it myself. But I broke that habit too, and in the past twenty years I have taken nothing of the sort. I have found that the less you take of such medicine the less you imagine you need it.

After I had been worrying along for five or ten years without physic I wrote a book—or anyway a booklet about it. The booklet has only 36 pages, but a whale of a title, "Constipation Habit and Colon Hygiene," for copy inclose ten cents and 1-cent-stamped envelope bearing your address.

People who resort to physic habitually or frequently must remember they not only interfere with digestive processes which are essential for health but in many instances suffer injurious by-effects from the drugs in the medicine.

My advice is don't pay attention to "elimination"—now that you know it isn't elimination it ought to be easier for you to keep your mind off from it. Instead you might pay more attention to your breathing—now, there's a function which is probably susceptible of considerable improvement, if you haven't yet learned how to breathe.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Oculist Survived Guillotine
I expect to take postgraduate in practical sense he was the only Republican candidate in the primary. He beat a Democrat, and went on to become governor in a landslide.

Some of these critics would like to advance a modification of the present system through which party responsibility would be served and strengthened. It might be wise, they suggest, to reestablish legal nominations by the convention and caucus system, with the condition that other candidacies by the nominating petition would still be allowed.

There are men in Wisconsin available for high office, it is said, who would listen to the invitation of a responsible party convention while declining scornfully the idea of fighting for a nomination from the campaign stump. The quality of state office-holders might be improved if such a method of drawing upon candidacies should be established—without the necessity of interfering with free candidates of any citizen.

struction in otolaryngology in New York this winter. It would be a favor if you will advise where I may get instruction in electrocoagulation of tonsils. I still remember the hemorrhage and pain I suffered when mine were guillotined 15 years ago. (..... M.D.)

Answer—I am mailing you an answer, Doctor. Even if some victims survive without suffering such distress, I can't for the life of me understand why an intelligent person should choose the old Spanish custom if there is a physician within reach who is skilled in diathermy extirpation.

Monkeying
Have tried at several places to get dichloroacetic acid which the lady said she used to remove moles, but they don't have it. (Mrs. T. S.)

Answer—So far as I know, the lady did not say she used it. I said a doctor used it to destroy a mole. It would be too dangerous for any one but a doctor to use in any circumstances. More effective in many instances is electrodesiccation, which, of course, is a method applicable safely by a physician, not by any one else.

Expansion
Up until four or five years ago I was pretty active and kept quite fit for a fellow of forty. Then I had to give up golf and other things and stick here in the store all the time. I began to expand—not in the chest but in the waist. (H. A. F.)

Answer—Maybe this is not the moment to cite the rule-of-thumb but for every inch by which a man's waist measure exceeds his chest measure he must subtract about two years from his life expectancy. The pleasant part of it is that the man, if he has the gump-tion, can come back. How to do so is described in practical fashion in the booklet "The 7 Keys to Vite"—for copy send twenty-five cents coin and 1-cent-stamped envelope bearing your address.

Just a Step Behind the News

By Dave Boone

Like it or not, the late Lord Lothian's statement on what Britain expects from America cut through all the bunk, platitudes, and pretty words, and put it right up to Uncle Sam to decide whether he is really going the limit to help England.

Lord Lothian put his cards on the table. He said this is America's battle as much as England's, that John Bull's victory depends on our help and that the British are still in a very tough spot, with lots of trouble ahead. This plain talk ought to be welcomed even if it does nothing more than cause America to make up its mind.

Here's England saying plainly, "I've got to have something besides a little help and a lot of words to save me. Can you give it?" And it's time to cut through the fog and answer yes or no.

The trouble is not only that England don't know what we are willing to do, but that we don't either. At least one of us ought to find out.

Lord Lothian Understood U. S. And Its People

His Death Is Severe Blow to the British Cause, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — "Something more than a friendly, intelligent, amiable and hard-working personality passed from the scene here with the death of Lord Lothian, the British ambassador to the United States. That something was a rare faculty possessed by few Englishmen in our whole history—a faculty of understanding the American people and their psychology."

Used as it was at a time of crisis in world affairs, the splendid mind of Lord Lothian contributed to American-British relations an efficiency and a constructive method which made possible the most extraordinary of agreements and co-operative undertakings.

Back in the days of the peace conference at Paris in 1918 and 1919 this correspondent and many others of the newspaper contingent which went abroad at that time with President Wilson learned to know Philip Kerr — his name before he was given the title of Marquess of Lothian. He was then private secretary to the prime minister, David Lloyd George, and he dealt daily with American newsmen for his chief.

When Lord Lothian came here as ambassador he picked up the threads of all his war-time relationships, including one with President Roosevelt, who was assistant secretary of the navy in those days. But mere friendship with American newsmen and Americans doesn't make a great ambassador. Lord Lothian was a student of human beings and political groups, and he was as intensely interested in the operations of the American democracy as he was in that of his own country. He seemed to be able to understand and sympathize with the currents of American thought. He was careful never to criticize, but always to discuss American affairs objectively. His informality was disarming — one never felt in the presence of royalty or foreign manners when lunching or dining with him at the embassy. He never misled or attempted to "put things over," but always gave the facts as they had been relayed to him from abroad.

Again and again he talked of the war, not just in terms of the physical combat, but with a realization of the overall significance of the world struggle in terms of the spiritual relations of peoples and individuals to each other. He had a deeply religious conception of the part that man could play in finding some other way beside war to settle his disputes — he had faith in reason, but he believed that the cycle of time would first have to bring a military defeat before the people could reconcile themselves to the security of negotiations and treaties.

Not Easy to Replace
The death of Lord Lothian is too sudden to appraise. In sheer values, as a representative of Great Britain, he will not be easily replaced. Others will come with wide understanding of how to keep from offending Americans. But who can as quickly reach the position of intimate friend with senators and representatives of all parties, government officials, army and navy officers, and influential business and civic leaders in America? He was an indefatigable worker. His physical energies were probably weakened by his struggle to give his utmost to his country. It probably reduced his resistance against the ravages of disease.

There is talk of sending Anthony Eden here. He made a profound impression when he came to Washington in 1938. He doesn't know America, but he is an able citizen. Britain may find it necessary to send two representatives here — an ambassador and a head for her war mission. The problems are complicated. Some are diplomatic, some are financial. Britain has here a financial representative, now discussing credit problems with our treasury experts. He may be asked to stay on to head up a war mission until a new ambassador is chosen. There have been in the British foreign office men who know America well. Sir Arthur Willert, for instance, who for many years was in charge of the American section of the foreign office and who previously represented the London Times in Washington, is a close friend of President Roosevelt. He received his title because of his able work in assisting the late Lord Northcliffe when he was head of the British war mission early in 1918. If Sir Arthur Willert is available, he would be an excellent man to replace Lord Lothian, for he knows America and officialdom very well and has, in addition, experience with war-time problems. Lord Lothian will be missed. The British cause has suffered a severe blow. He was a great ambassador, because he was one of the few men who might readily have been an ardent American if the accident of birth had not made him a British subject. He was the ideal instrument to reconcile and bring together American and British viewpoints. Hence, more than a mere personality died — an instrument of understanding and good-will has been removed from the scene.

Ostrander Cops First Position In Borden Loop

Newcomer in League Scores 583 Series to Give Leaders 2 Games

New London — Morgan Backes from Northport joined the Ostrander Cops in the Borden Farmers league and skyrocketed the loop's top series mark to a 583 on his first night at Prah's alleys last night. His 211 game fell seven pins short of another mark. His other lines were 208 and 164.

Ostrander took Black Creek for two games to grab first place. Unchallenged Royalton lost a tie for the lead by dropping two games to Bear Creek in second place. Lebanon took two from the Skunk Hollowers to make it a 3-way tie for second.

Vic Handschke slapped a 201 game and 509 total to lead Maple Creek in two victories over Borden's, the wins giving the team a tie with Black Creek for the lower rung. Other honor scores were Ed Rathrop's 204 and 511 for Royalton and Erv Paul's 202 for Bear Creek.

Refreshment League
Eggers Tap Rooms clinched a tie for the first half season when they took two more games from the Orange Kists, leaving the other three teams of the circuit tied six games behind at 18-21. Dave Freiburger paced the champs with 203 and 526 but Clarence Laux of the Verifines posted top scores with 216 and 556 as the squad lost two games to Miller High Lines.

Ladies Club
Arleen Schmidt banged a 178 single and 423 total to lead the league, sparking Meatz Insurance to two wins over the leading Meshke Groceries to gain another tie for the top. Restles Garage won two from Lippold and Queeman Grocery.

Organizations To Begin Round Of Yule Parties

Plywood Local Will Entertain Children At Afternoon Program

Today and Tomorrow

Japanese Intervention in American Affairs

The Japanese Foreign Minister, Mr. Matsuo, received the foreign correspondents this week and made some interesting remarks about Japan's attitude toward the United States. They will be studied in this country and it is not unlikely that the more they are studied, the more remarkable they appear to be. For what Mr. Matsuo tells us is that Japan will decide whether measures we may take to defend our security in the Atlantic Ocean are a good reason for launching an attack upon us in the Pacific Ocean. Mr. Matsuo tells us that he does not wish to go to war with us but that he will go to war with us if Tokyo does not approve of our policy toward the European war. Tokyo is to be the judge of what we may do and what we may not do. Tokyo is to determine whether we have "attacked" Germany or have been attacked by Germany. And if Tokyo's verdict is unfavorable to us, Japan will go to war with us. There will not be, says Mr. Matsuo, "any serious clash" if "both of us attend to our own business" and all depends on whether we mind our business. For according to Mr. Matsuo, the United States will not be attending to its own business if it interests itself in anything that happens in the Far East or in Europe. But Japan will be attending to her own business when in addition to founding a new order in the Asiatic world, she constitutes herself the judge, jury, and lord high executioner in respect to American policy in the Western world. According to Mr. Matsuo, then, the price of peace is not merely to give Japan a free hand in the Pacific but to recognize Japan's right to censor and judge our policy in the Atlantic. If Mr. Matsuo means what he said, the President and the Secretary of State and Congress will in future be expected to consult Tokyo and get the permission of the Japanese government before taking any measures which may deem it desirable to take. For Tokyo will decide whether our assistance to Great Britain and Greece is an act of war which does not fall under Article III of the Berlin treaty of the Triple Alliance.

United States Neither Makes Nor Receives Threats

If anything were needed to demonstrate the vital importance of supporting Great Britain and China, and the Netherlands Indies, and Australia, Mr. Matsuo has completed the demonstration by threatening us with war if we do not allow him to judge and define our foreign policy in respect to the defense of our vital interest in the Atlantic Ocean. As a result, his interview is bound to raise in very serious form the question whether the necessary answer to such a threat is not to take quick even more energetic measures in support of China and even more drastic measures to reduce Japan's capacity to threaten us with war.

For we have the power to take these measures, and the only reason we do not take them is that we do not wish to go to war with Japan and it is not our habit to make threats of war. But neither are we accustomed to receiving threats of war from other nations. For we should in the end be compelled to take them seriously and to act in order that the threats may never be carried out. Copyright, 1940, New York Tribune, Inc.

On its base is the inscription: No-Buck Club Park Your Tags Here

From the antlers hang four unused 1940 deer tags, admittedly those of employees of the department.

Building Sites Scarce On University Campus

Post-Crescent Madison bureau Madison—The University of Wisconsin, according to its officials, has many problems, most of them financial.

A new kind of difficulty was revealed here this week, however, when the state architect told a group of alumni that the campus has grown so rapidly in recent years that there is now a lack of space for the expansion in physical plant which the university hopes the legislature will authorize.

In picturing the campus of the future, Roger C. Kirchhoff state architect, explained that each new building makes available sites scarce. The location of the proposed new library is an especially weighty problem, he said.

Hortonville — Hortonville Commercial club will sponsor its annual community Christmas tree program Thursday evening, Dec. 19, on the corner of Main and Nash streets. Santa Claus will be there to distribute candy to the children. The club is erecting arches of cedar boughs and lights over the main street of the village.

Hortonville Girl Scouts entertained the Hortonville Boy Scouts at a party and luncheon in the Community club room at the village hall Tuesday evening. Miss Margaret Lambs, Girl Scout leader, was in charge of party arrangements. Charles Schroeder, scoutmaster, and Carlton Schneider, assistant scoutmaster, assisted with the games.

Mrs. F. Stratton entertained the Laf a Lot Bridge club at her home Tuesday evening. Prizes were won by Mrs. E. J. Gitter, high; Mrs. Harris Hauk, second, and Mrs. J. Botenseck, third. The club will not meet again until after the holidays.

Hortonville High school A. and B. basketball teams will go to Winneconne Friday evening to play the Winneconne High teams. This will be the second conference game. A high school Christmas party will be held Thursday, Dec. 19, at the Community hall. Committees are as follows:

Decorations—Ernie Krueger, chair; library (not yet authorized) than for any other single problem on the campus," he said.

Plays, Music Presented at Club Meeting

Two one-act plays were read by Mrs. Gerald Jolin, Hortonville, and a group of vocal solos were given by Mrs. Kenneth Kloehe in addition to numbers by Appleton Woman's club chorus at the December meeting of the Woman's club Thursday afternoon at the clubhouse. Mrs. Jolin read "Ashes of Roses" by Constance d'Arcy Mackey and "Little Mixer" by Lillian Nicholson Shearon.

Mrs. Kloehe, who was accompanied by Mrs. S. J. Kloehe sang "Birthday of a King" by Neidlinger, "Gesu Bambino" by Pietro Yon, "Cantique to Noel" by Adam and "St. Nicholas Day in the Morning" by Martin. The chorus sang several ensemble numbers and there were other selections by a trio composed of Mrs. Lacey Horton, Mrs. Sylvester Esler and Mrs. W. F. Kelm and by a double trio consisting of Mrs. Horton, Mrs. Nita Brinckley, Mrs. John Alpert, Mrs. Esler, Mrs. F. H. Richmond and Mrs. M. O. Kroke. Mrs. L. J. Boyle played the accompaniment.

Dolls which were donated by the club to be distributed to needy children through the Y. M. C. A. were on display yesterday. The tea table was decorated with a large Christmas wreath and red candles, and Mrs. W. F. McGowan, club president, and Miss Carrie Morgan poured. Nearly 100 women attended.

Announcement was made of a music department dessert-bridge for Jan. 7 at the clubhouse, and of a recreation department Christmas party next Wednesday at the home of Mrs. L. M. Schindler, W. Packard street, where a 6:30 dinner will be served.

tel annex. There were 84 tables in play.

Second north and south were Mrs. E. J. Van Vonderen and Mrs. David Smith, who had 106 match points, and third for that direction were Mrs. Julie K. Singler and E. J. Van Vonderen, with 103.

Miss Jeanne De Bauser and Leonard Cook, the latter of Oshkosh, were second east and west, totaling 924 match points, and Robert Shannon and Lee Lillesand were third with 89.

Latin Club Will be Host To Mothers at Yule Party

Mothers of members of the Appleton High school Latin club will be guests of the group at a "Christmas party" in the Early American room Thursday afternoon. Guests and hosts will gather around the fire place to sing Latin carols and hear the Christmas story from its origins to the present.

Nancy Errington, William Baker, Guenther Holz, Dorothy Mader and Jackie Wells will participate in a symposium to tell about the Roman Saturnalia, the pagan forerunner of the Christmas holiday. "Silent Night" will be sung in Latin by Ruth Wells, Presocia Raney, Rosemary Gabriel, Gladys Mears, Mary Lou Jackson, Miss Errington, Mary Carroll, Betty Hansen, Ralph Gage, Henry Hoffman, Dan Moser and Stan Williams. Harriet Krug will accompany the group. Elaine Hamilton will play a piano solo and Mary Jo Donohue will read "Pompey's Christmas," a humorous poem. The Christmas story as it is told in the Latin bible will be read by Miss Raney.

Chairman of the program committee is Miss Gabriel. She was assisted by Janet Laehn, Baker, Miss Donohue, David Gallaher and Ervin Grishaber. Invitations, which are miniature scrolls, were made by Betty Flynn, chairman, Norma Crow, Gloria Enger, Joan Green, Elaine Carlson, Miss Hamilton, DeWes Horrig, Alice Keller and Janet Playman.

Tony Groh is chairman of the seating committee. Robert Connolly, Elliott Jacobson, Tom Letter and Holtz will be his assistants. Refreshments will be served by Ruth De Braal, chairman, Mary Carroll, Pat Carroll, Margaret Carroll, Virginia Fose, Betty Myers, Pat Thwing, Shirley Golper, Miss Hansen, Miss Jackson, Dete Notaras and Mary Trezise.

On the reception committee are Merrie Ebert, chairman, Jean Watson, Diana Caramchas, Gage, Miss Mader, Ruth Wells, Jean Troutmann, James Kluge, John Leonard, Groh and Moser. Marilyn Schuh is chairman of the clean-up corps. Her

The visiting committee for this month consists of Mrs. Emma Arndt, Mrs. William Baehman, Mrs. Alfred Behm and Mrs. W. E. Behnke.

There will be a Christmas party Dec. 22 for members and their husbands in the form of a 6:30 supper at the church. Mrs. Oscar Radtke will be chairman. The society is planning to celebrate its twenty-fifth anniversary in February.

The annual banquet of Ladies Aid society of Mt. Olive Lutheran church will be held at 6:30 tonight at the church parlors. Mrs. Frank Weinkauff is chairman.

In a candlelight ceremony, new officers of Circle 4 of First Congregational church were installed yesterday afternoon at the church following a pot-luck luncheon. Miss Sophie Schaefer is the new captain; Mrs. Max Elias, vice captain; Mrs. Charles Goldbeck, secretary; and Mrs. Richard Verwey, treasurer.

Tuesday evening commencing at 7:30. Gifts will be exchanged and an entertainment program will be presented.

Mrs. John W. Wilson was installing officer.

Miss Schaefer gave a reading, "Christmas Bells" by Longfellow, and Mrs. Elias read a paper on the observance of Christmas in various parts of the United States. The 21 members present told how they had earned or saved money for the church. The group decided to turn the amount over to the building fund of the new parish house in memory of Mrs. Elizabeth Brewer who was captain of the circle for two years before her death this fall.

Christian Mothers society of Holy Angels church, Darboy, will have a Christmas party and 4:30 dinner Sunday afternoon in the school auditorium. The annual meeting and election of officers will precede the party.

Seventeen new members will be received into Trinity English Lutheran church at the 10:30 service Sunday morning. One of these will be baptized, three will be confirmed and eleven will be received by profession of faith while three will be admitted by letter of transfer.

Appleton Couple Honored As Pickards Entertain at Farewell Dinner Party

Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Pickard, E. Forest avenue, Neenah, entertained at a dinner party at North Shore Golf Club Wednesday evening for Mr. and Mrs. Russell LeRoux, who are leaving Appleton Dec. 20. Guests at the dinner were employees of the Neenah National Manufacturers bank, where Mrs. LeRoux has been employed. Following the dinner, the party adjourned to the Pickard home for the evening. Mr. LeRoux, who has been employed by the Interlake Pulp and Paper company, has accepted a position in the pulp division of the Weyerhaeuser Timber company at Everett, Wash. He will take over his new duties about Jan. 1.

Mrs. Walter Centner, 1106 W. Commercial street, entertained at a Christmas party Thursday night at her home. Mrs. Santa Claus distributed gifts and contact was played, prizes going to Miss Bernice Goehler and Miss Rose Miller. Others present were the Misses Ann Arfstrom, Loretta Ambrosius, Ruth Roblee, Minnie Ziemer, Lucille Bessett and Leone Young.

A joint Christmas party for Sheet Metal Workers and Auxiliary will be held Saturday night at Trades and Labor hall. Music and dancing will provide entertainment. The committee will consist of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Haak, Mr. and Mrs.

George Lanser, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fisher, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Metz, the latter couple of Neenah. There will be a business meeting at 8 o'clock preceding the party.

Teachers of the Jefferson school had a Christmas dinner party Thursday evening at the Conway hotel. After the dinner gifts were exchanged and cards were played, honors going to Miss Leona Anderson and Miss Rachel Cody. Mrs. Margaret Rouse was general chairman of the committees in charge of the party.

Seven tables were in play at the card party given Thursday afternoon at St. Joseph's hall by the St. Joseph's Ladies' Aid society. Prizes went to Mrs. Fred Stoffel and Mrs. Bess Lee at schafkopf and to Mrs. Elizabeth Olm at plumpack.

Kappa Delta sorority will entertain at a formal dance Saturday night at Castle hall. Dr. Richard Cummings and Prof. and Mrs. F. W.

Freize of the Lawrence faculty have been asked to chaperon. A large lighted Christmas tree will provide holiday atmosphere for the party.

Members of the Thursday club had a Christmas party yesterday afternoon at Mrs. Martin Vander Velden's home Kaukauna. Present were Mrs. Lewis Welson, Mrs. John Beaulieu, Mrs. Peter Whydowski, Mrs. Charles Selig and Mrs. Peter Dietzen. After a 1 o'clock luncheon, gifts were exchanged and schafkopf was played. The club will meet next week at Mrs. Beulieu's home on W. Foster street.

A Christmas party for Job's Daughters will be held Monday night at the temple when gifts will be exchanged and Santa Claus will appear. Mrs. John Q. Hansen will be in charge.

STOP FOR ARTERIALS

Five Hundred Party Given at Hilbert

Hilbert — Mrs. Norbert Thomas and Mrs. George Meyer received prizes for high scores at the Five Hundred club which was entertained Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. John Laffey. The club will not meet until after Christmas when Mrs. Norbert Thomas will be the hostess.

The Neighborhood Schafkopf club met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Gilbert Pethan. High scores were held by Mrs. Matt Nilles, Mrs. Robert Sommers and Mrs. Gilbert Boeslager. Mrs. Adolph Behnke will entertain the club next week.

The William Brockman post of the American Legion and its auxiliary held their monthly meeting Monday evening at the village hall. Each organization voted a donation to the Christmas cheer fund for Veterans hospital and to buy its usual number of Christmas seals.

A joint Christmas party is planned for Sunday, Dec. 22, to be preceded by a pot luck supper at the village hall. The committee in charge of the Christmas tree and preparations is Mrs. Elbert Heise, Mrs. Edgar Burkhardt and Mrs. Arthur Depies. A joint social hour followed the business meeting.

Prizes at five hundred were won by Mrs. Jay Thorse and Nic Berg; at rumby by Mrs. Peter Meier. The committee in charge of entertainment and lunch included Mrs. A. W. Carlson, Mrs. Fred Loper and Mrs. Nic Berg.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Thorse, who recently sold their home, are moving their home furnishings this week into the Jantz residence. Bob Burnell, who purchased the Thorse home, expects to move here soon. His mother, who now lives at Ontonagon, Mich., will make her home at Hilbert with her son. Nic Schafter, a former Hilbert resident, left this week for his home at Colby after a week's visit here with relatives.

Hanneman Is Royal Arch High Priest

Paul E. Hanneman was elected high priest of Appleton chapter, No. 47, Royal Arch Masons, at the annual meeting of the chapter last night at the Masonic temple. He succeeds W. W. Elmer.

Others elected were H. B. Leith, king; A. W. Council, scribe; Arthur Hoffmann, treasurer; William H. Roock, secretary; and C. O. Davis, trustee for three years.

A district meeting of De Molay advisers was held last night at the Appleton Masonic temple with about 50 men present from Watertown, Manitowoc, Neenah, Menasha, Wisconsin Rapids, Oshkosh and Appleton. Dinner was served by the activities committee, before the meeting at which future plans were discussed.

Carl E. Godager, Wisconsin Rapids, state president of De Molay advisers, and Gilbert Gehrke, a representative from Oshkosh, gave talks, and Dr. Obed H. Moon, Watertown, spoke on the efficiency program of the Watertown De Molay chapter.

Two new members, Mrs. George Van Oyen and Mrs. C. E. Lesser, were initiated into Delta chapter, auxiliary of the Employees Mutual Benefit association, at its meeting Thursday afternoon at the E.M.B.A. clubrooms. Final plans were made for the Christmas party the chapter will have next Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Martin Verhoeven will have charge of the program, which will follow a short business session at 3 o'clock.

A contribution for the children's Christmas party at the national orphan home at Eaton Rapids, Mich., was voted by Harvey Pierre auxiliary to Veterans of Foreign Wars at a meeting last night at Eagle hall following a pot-luck supper. The group also sent a box of home-made cookies to Veterans Administration at Wood, Wis.

Royal Neighbors Pick Officers at Shiocton Session

Shiocton—The Royal Neighbor lodge Tuesday evening elected the following officers:

Oracle, Maud Shepherdson; past oracle, Edna Strong; vice oracle, Minnie Pooler; chancellor, Evis Booth; recorder, Eva Ceolter; receiver, Vera Mealing; marshal, Mae Thompson; assistant marshal, Olive Steede; manager, Lila Manley; musician, Elsie Kuehler; physician, Dr. G. M. LaCroix; inner sentinel, Mable Locke; outer sentinel, Marjorie O'Brien. Other officers will be appointed. Installation will be held at the regular meeting in January. A pot luck supper will be served.

After the business session, a Christmas party was enjoyed which included a Christmas tree and exchange of gifts. Schafkopf was played during the remainder of the evening. Mrs. Anita Ratsch was high; Mrs. Elsie Kuehler, second; Mrs. Mattie Kling, low, and Mrs. Minnie Pooler second low.

Shiocton Odd Fellows lodge celebrated the annual Homecoming and roll call Monday evening. Of 91 members, 61 were present including members from Black Creek, Hortonville, Dale and Stephenville as well as a large group from town of Maine and Navarino. The early part of the evening was devoted to watching colored motion pictures shown by Dr. M. E. Swanton of Appleton of his trips to Wyoming. These pictures were enjoyed by the 75 persons who attended. This entertainment was followed by an oyster supper and roll call of members. Gift presentations were made to Lloyd Brooker and George Jones for outstanding services to the lodge.

Mrs. William Kroeger was hostess to the Ladies Bridge club at her home Wednesday afternoon. Honors were awarded to Mrs. Earl Kuehler and Mrs. Belle Morse, and Mrs. Charles Masterson received the carrying prize. Next Tuesday a 12:30 Christmas dinner will be served at the Kroeger home by the four preceding hostesses who entertained individually. They include Mrs. T. O. Town, Mrs. Will Oaks, Mrs. Miles Wincenston and Mrs. William Kroeger.

Mustache That Vanished Comes Up in Hearing

Bus Driver Identifies Raymond C. Zuehlke as His Passenger Nov. 25

Wauwata — A "disappearing mustache" entered the testimony in the preliminary hearing yesterday of Raymond C. Zuehlke, Washington clerk charged with setting fire to his mother's home in Fremont Nov. 25.

W. C. Anderson, a bus driver, testified before S. W. Johnson, justice of the peace, that Zuehlke was one of the passengers he picked up at Fremont Nov. 25. Anderson said that Zuehlke "appeared from nowhere" wearing a thick black mustache, minus a bus ticket and carrying a small zipper bag, the Associated Press reported.

Anderson testified that Zuehlke rubbed his face during the trip to Chicago and that when he left the bus the mustache was missing.

Zuehlke is charged with arson on four counts. The state contends that Zuehlke flew from Washington, set fire to his mother's home for the insurance, and returned by bus. The hearing was continued until 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Roland Wells, Fremont fire chief, testified that when he arrived at the fire he discovered containers of gasoline in the attic of the Zuehlke home. Wells stated that in his opinion "the fire was set by someone".

Received Radio Call
Sheriff Duncan R. Campbell testified that at 3 o'clock on the morning of Nov. 25 he was notified by police radio at Oshkosh that a taxi driver from Menasha had reported driving a man to Fremont Sunday evening, Nov. 24. The taxi driver reported, according to Sheriff Campbell, that he had promised to drive the man from Fremont to Chicago later. The driver waited several hours. When his passenger did not appear, he returned to Menasha and reported the incident to police.

The sheriff told of finding 12 cans, six of them full of gasoline, in the attic of the home. He testified that on investigation he learned that filling stations in Neenah and Menasha had sold the gasoline. The taxi driver, Jerry Hup of Menasha, Everett Mason, Menasha filling station operator, and Chris Neelsen, Neenah filling station attendant, will be called as state's witnesses at the continuance of the hearing tomorrow.

The Zuehlke home burned following a terrific explosion late Sunday night, Nov. 24. The alarm was sent into the fire department by Dr. Chris P. Arnoldsen, Fremont physician, who lives near the home. Insurance issued on the dwelling included $2,000 issued in the name of Marilyn Zuehlke, Appleton, owner of the building; $1,200 on the furniture in the name of Mrs. Zuehlke, mother of the defendant, and $1,000 on books and effects of Raymond Zuehlke.

The defendant is at liberty under $2,000 cash bond.

The Weather

Forecast for Wisconsin:

Fair, not so cold extreme northwest portion tonight; Saturday increasing cloudiness with rising temperature, followed by snow south and central portions.

General Weather Conditions:

Heavy rain has fallen during the last 24 hours over eastern Texas and Louisiana and rain or snow has been general over most of the central and eastern portions of the country, but generally fair weather prevailed this morning over the Lake region and from the plains states westward.

It is now much colder over all the north central states, and sub-zero temperatures prevail over western and northern Wisconsin and over the northern plains states. Temperatures are moderating slowly over the northern Rocky mountains and Canadian Northwest. However, it is quite mild over the Atlantic coast.

Fair and continued cold is expected in this section tonight, followed by cloudy and warmer Saturday.

City Will Pay $6,721 for Pool Filtration Plant

Chicago Firm Given Contract; Board Meets Today on Equipment

After interviewing representatives of various bidders, the board of public works Thursday awarded the contract to furnish a filtration plant for the municipal swimming pool to International Filter company, Chicago.

The total cost of the plant will be $6,721 including pumps which will be purchased from the Crane Engineering company, Appleton and a chlorinator which will be sought from the Wallace and Tiernan company, Inc., Newark, N. Y.

The board made its selection after an all-day session in which representatives of the companies explained the various filtration systems. The board was advised by W. U. Gallaher, superintendent of the Appleton purification plant.

The type of filtration was left optional between a lateral underdraining system and a grid system with strainer plates.

The board will submit its decision for approval to the city council at 7:30 Wednesday night in city hall.

Bids on fencing, slides, diving boards, diving towers, life guard seats and pool ladders were being considered by the works board this afternoon.

Today's Deaths

Mrs. Chris Jensen

Mrs. Chris Jensen, 72, Royalton, died Thursday afternoon at her home after an illness of a year.

She was born Aug. 16, 1868, in the town of Royalton and lived there since.

Survivors are the widow, one daughter, Mrs. Lillian Behnke, Royalton; two sisters, Mrs. John Nelson, Weyauwega, and Mrs. Walter Davis, Royalton; two brothers, Eugene Henry, New London, George Henry, LaFargeville, New York; and two grandchildren.

Miss Amelia McKay

Miss Amelia McKay, 921 W. Franklin street, died at 7 o'clock Thursday evening at her home after a 3-month illness. She was born in Appleton, graduated from Ryan High school and Lawrence university and taught at the Spencer road and old Fourth ward schools for many years. She lived in Denver, Colo. and Farmington, N. M., before returning to Appleton several months ago. Miss McKay was an early member of the Congregational church.

Surviving are a sister, Miss Alice McKay, Appleton, and a brother, Thomas, Superior, Wis.

Funeral services will be conducted at 10 o'clock Monday morning at Wichmann Funeral home by the Rev. Dascomb E. Forbush. Burial will be in Riverside cemetery. The body may be viewed at the funeral home after 7 o'clock Saturday evening.

Dress Rehearsal for Yule Concert Given for Students

Appleton High school's orchestra and choruses gave a dress rehearsal of their Christmas concert for the assembly Thursday afternoon. The annual Christmas program will be presented at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the high school auditorium. Admission is by ticket only.

High in the paint gallery above the stage was stationed the second chorus of 96 voices Thursday afternoon. Under the direction of Albert O. Glockzin the group sang "Come, Come to the Manger" by Waddington; the Slovakian carol, "Alleluia, Christ Is Born," and "Gloria to God" by Kessel. Solos were sung by Carol Jury and Jean Risse. Myrna Steffen was the accompanist.

Moving down to the stage, Glockzin then directed the robed choir in "A Cradle Hymn" by Christensen; "Lo, How a Rose" by Praetorius; "As Lately We Watched," an Austrian folk melody; and "Sing Noel," a 15th century French carol. Ila Mae Stueck played the piano accompaniment.

Accompanied by the orchestra the choruses then sang "Joy to the World" by Handel, "Hark the Herald Angels Sing" by Mendelssohn and "Adeste Fideles" by Reading. The entire assembly joined the choruses in singing the last hymn.

The orchestra under the direction of Jay I. Williams will open the concert Sunday afternoon. Selections which will be played include "Pique Dame Overture" by Suppe, "Fugue" by Bach and "Christmas Fantasia" by Grossman. Bette Stevens will play a violin solo, "Concerto Number 23" by Viotti, accompanied by the orchestra.

Fatal Accident 'Unavoidable,' Jury Decides

Believe Defect in Car Responsible for Death of Lucille Timmers, 19

An inquest jury this morning found that the death of Miss Lucille Timmers, 19, route 2, Appleton, in a car crash early on the morning of Oct. 16 was due to an "unavoidable" accident.

Miss Timmers was killed instantly when the car in which she was riding sideswiped a culvert on old highway 41 at the foot of a grade between Little Chute and Kimberly.

The verdict of the inquest jury presented in municipal court chambers this morning read as follows: "We, the jury, are of the opinion that the accident might have been caused by either a flat tire or defective steering apparatus and therefore was unavoidable."

Miss Marian Joosten, 19, route 4, Appleton, the driver of the car, was injured in the accident. She testified this morning that she was unable to turn the steering wheel of the car to avoid striking the culvert.

Members of the jury were Joseph Drexler, Walter Steenis, Walter Oestreich, Joseph Grassberger, Aaron Zerbel, and E. Rohde.

Take Bids for Crushing Stone at 2 Quarries

The county agricultural committee is taking bids until 1:30 next Tuesday afternoon on 8,000 cubic yards of crushed stone to be taken from the Black Creek Limestone company quarry to the village of Black Creek and 5,000 cubic yards of crushed stone to be taken from the John Walter quarry a mile west of Seymour. Bids are being received at the agricultural office in the courthouse. The county will furnish stone and blaster and WPA labor will be used. The contractor is to furnish the crusher, and trucks, but not drivers, to haul stone to crusher and for stockpiling.

Relocation of Highway 41 to DePere Studied

Public Hearing Will Be Held Dec. 18 to Establish New Route

The relocation of Highway 41 in Brown county from the south county line of a point west of DePere will be the subject of a public hearing next Wednesday at Green Bay, according to D. F. Culbertson, state highway engineer stationed at Green Bay.

The route for about a mile of the highway which lies in Outagamie county will not be changed, Culbertson said, but it is proposed to re-route the highway in Brown county to belt-line DePere and eventually Green Bay.

The relocation to DePere is the first step in the proposed relocation all the way around Green Bay and involves about 10 miles of the present Highway 41 and Brown County Trunk G, Culbertson stated.

Although the state highway commission has drawn up a highway construction budget for the next two years, it is impossible to discuss definite plans for construction during the next season, according to W. E. O'Brien, chairman of the state highway commission.

O'Brien explained that the "impossibility" arises not out of the unwillingness of the highway authorities of the state to make public their plans, but because of the "many factors relative to the disposition of highway revenues."

The Green Bay hearing, however, may be interpreted to mean that the commission will proceed with the modernization of Highway 41 as soon as it is financially possible.

Good Fellows Start Off Well But Fall Off Last Two Days

After getting off to an excellent start, contributions to the Good Fellows Christmas basket fund have fallen off the last two days. Contributions totaled $77.50 this morning, still a long way from the amount necessary to provide even a little bit of Christmas to the city's needy families.

Last year approximately 180 families were given Christmas help. Preliminary surveys indicate that this year the number will be somewhat larger, but none of the organizations working in Appleton Relief and Welfare council have finished their investigations. One society reported that last year it provided 55 baskets, while this year it probably would have 62.

And it appears that the cost of filling the average basket will be a bit higher than last year, when the average was around $3.50. The baskets usually contain an order of meat, a peck of potatoes, apples, canned vegetables, butter, lard, oranges, candy and nuts and needed clothing. It is obviously impossible to furnish all the ingredients necessary for a complete Christmas dinner, but the supply is sufficient so that there will be no want in the family over the holiday.

Cooperation of the Y. M. C. A. makes it possible to include toys in baskets for families that have children. The Relief and Welfare council also furnished candy for the children, paid for out of Good Fellow contributions. Although the cooperating societies receive Good Fellow money in proportion to the number of families they care for, last year few of them got back the cost of their Christmas baskets.

This year, it is hoped, there will be more Good Fellows and that they will be more generous so that none of the societies will be compelled to dig down into its other resources for Christmas baskets.

There is no better time to be a Good Fellow than right now, while you are reading this. Clip the Good Fellow blank with this article and send it right now to the Good Fellows club, Appleton Post-Crescent.

Dr. C. D. Boyd Is Honored by Medical Group

Receives Plaque in Recognition of His 50 Years of Practice

The Outagamie County Medical association last night awarded Dr. C. D. Boyd, Kaukauna, a plaque in commemoration of his 50 years of medical practice.

The presentation was made by Dr. W. E. Archer, president of the association, at a banquet at the Conway hotel at which doctors of the county and their wives were present. About 65 people attended. Dr. Harry Culver, pastor of the Methodist church in Appleton, spoke at the banquet.

Dr. Boyd was born in Wisconsin Dells and began practice in Kaukauna in 1891 after his graduation from Rush Medical college in Chicago. Except for a few months, he has lived and practiced medicine in Kaukauna since that year.

Dr. Boyd has been superintendent of Riverview sanatorium since it was built in 1913. The second president of the Outagamie County Medical association, he has been director of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association. He has been president of the staff at St. Elizabeth's hospital in Appleton and since 1935 has held the position of public health officer at Kaukauna.

Official Count Reveals Record November Vote

4,914,713 Plurality For Roosevelt; Electors Will Convene Monday

Washington—(AP)—The American electorate cast a new record vote of 49,908,624 Nov. 5 and chose Franklin D. Roosevelt as the nation's first third term president by a plurality of 4,914,713.

Final returns as compiled by the Associated Press, official in 46 states and unofficial in Nebraska and Rhode Island—show the popular vote to have been divided this way:

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democrat, 27,241,939; Wendell L. Willkie, Republican, 22,327,226; Norman Thomas, Socialist, 1,167,796; Roger W. Babson, Prohibition, 58,600; Earl R. Browder, Communist, 48,789; John W. Aiken, Socialist-Labor, 14,861; other, 413.

Nebraska and Rhode Island hoped to complete their official canvasses before Monday, when the presidential electors meet in the 48 states for the formality of casting their electoral votes, which were divided 449 for Roosevelt and 82 for Willkie. Nebraska's unofficial total was complete except for two precincts.

Highest GOP Total

The president's total popular vote, including 417,418 American Labor party votes in New York state, was 509,858 less than the previous high of 27,751,597 which the chief executive himself established four years ago with the aid of 274,924 American Labor votes. His 1932 total was 22,821,857.

Willkie's popular vote was the largest ever given a Republican nominee, winner or loser. It included 22,423 independent Democrat votes in Georgia and 2,495 Jeffersonian Democrat votes in South Carolina. The previous record Republican vote was 21,392,190 for Herbert Hoover over Alfred E. Smith in 1928.

Only 239,453 votes were cast this year for minor party candidates. This was their smallest showing since 1924, when they polled 121,587, not counting the vote cast for the LaFollette third party ticket. There was no so-called "third party" in the field this year.

The total popular vote was 4,161,507 above the previous record of 45,647,117 in 1936 and 9,992,102 more than the 1932 total of 38,816,522.

FDR's Margin Cut

President Roosevelt's plurality was the smallest since Woodrow Wilson's 591,385 in 1916, and represented a recession from his 11,072,011 and 7,060,016 margins in 1936 and 1932, respectively. But his electoral vote of 449 to 82 for Willkie was exceeded only by his own 523 to 8 and 472 to 59 victories in his two previous elections. Otherwise this closest approach was Hoover's 444 to 87 in 1928.

Roosevelt carried 38 states, Willkie's pluralities were in Colorado, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Michigan, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota and Vermont.

The president's percentage of the total votes was 54.7; Willkie's 41.3, and minor party candidates 0.5. Roosevelt's 1936 percentage was 60.2; 1932, 57.2.

Texas gave Roosevelt the largest plurality of any state—640,909. Wyoming gave him the smallest—6,654. Willkie's biggest plurality was in Kansas—124,435; his smallest in Michigan—6,926.

"The Greek advance is more accelerated toward Chimara and Greek troops already have occupied many strong enemy positions along the coastal road. The Italians have started concentrating on the heights in front of Chimara with the apparent intention of making a last effort to resist before abandoning this historic town."

No Progress Made In Reducing Fatal Accidents in Home

No progress has been made in reducing fatal home accidents during the last 10 years, according to a National Safety Council bulletin received by Police Chief George T. Prim.

The figures to prove it are contained in the 1940 edition of Accident Facts, the council's statistical yearbook.

Fatal home accidents have increased from 30,000 to 32,000 a year since 1930.

Motor vehicle accidents produced 29,600 deaths in 1939, compared with 31,215 just 10 years ago, a relatively slight increase in the face of a 50 per cent rise in motor vehicle mileage during the same period.

Public (not motor vehicle) and occupational accident deaths showed actual decreases during the last decade, from 20,000 for each classification to 15,500.

In addition to persons killed in home accidents, approximately 4,700,000 were injured and 140,000 of the cases resulted in permanent disability such as the amputation of a finger or arm.

The principal types of 1939 home accidents and the deaths they caused were: falls, 16,100; burns, conflagration and explosion, 5,600; poisons (except gas), 1,400; fire arms, 1,350; mechanical suffocation, 1,050; poison gas, 900; all others, 5,600.

Pleads Innocent to Two Tavern Charges

Waupaca—Oliver Frederickson, Waupaca tavernkeeper, pleaded not guilty to two charges, selling liquor to an intoxicated person and keeping open between the hours of 1 and 8 o'clock in the morning, when he was arraigned before Justice of the Peace S. tought the flames. Most of the fires were extinguished quickly, but some of the larger ones burned for hours.

The total killed and injured, Exchange Telegraph said, "while considerable, was amazingly low considering the consistency and weight of the raid."

A number of bodies have still to be taken from widespread wreckage in commercial, shopping and residential areas.

"Large numbers of incendiary bombs were as usual employed," a communique said, "but the fire situation was soon well in hand. Reports are as yet incomplete but do not suggest heavy casualties and elsewhere in the region casualties were very few."

Berlin—(AP)—Hundreds of German warplanes carried out a great air attack last night on the English steel center of Sheffield which returning pilots said exceeded in effectiveness the recent destructive raid on Coventry, informed sources reported today.

So swiftly did the Germans attack, these sources said, that the British were taken completely by surprise and their anti-aircraft fire was so weak that not a single Nazi plane was lost.

Manawa Study Club Plans Yule Party

Manawa—Members of the Manawa Woman's Study club will convene next Thursday evening at the high school gymnasium for the organization's annual Christmas banquet and program. Dinner will be served at 6:30. Reservations for the banquet may be made with Mrs. Roy R. Bloomquist, Mrs. Martin Krueger, Mrs. Clarence Sturm and Mrs. Kneale Lindsay, members of the committee in charge of the event.

Dr. Thomas S. Kepler, professor of Bible and religion at Lawrence college, Appleton, will again fill the pulpit at the Methodist church here at 10:30 Sunday morning. Dr. Kepler will base his sermon on the subject, "Why Am I Here?"

Lions and their ladies will be entertained at the club's annual Christmas party next Monday evening at the Odd Fellows hall. Following a 6:30 dinner, a holiday program has been arranged, featured by the exchanging of gifts. Roy R. Bloomquist and L. J. Hanson comprise the program committee.

A.A.L. Directors to Convene Here Monday

The board of directors of the A.L. Association for Lutherans will open its annual meeting Monday morning, Alex O. Benz, president, reported today.

Trustees of the A. A. L. are in session now at the home office in Appleton. The election of three new directors will be announced at the meeting opening Monday. Branches of the A. A. L. have voted on directors at recent meetings.

District Order Draft Numbers are Retained Despite New Residence

Young men of the Appleton draft district who registered here for the selective service program retain their Appleton district order numbers when they move away and are on call from this district, the Appleton-board pointed out today.

The only change made in procedure in cases of this type is allowing the young man to be inducted at a station nearer his own residence.

For example, if a young man from Appleton moved to Lima, Ohio, he would retain his Appleton district draft order number, and would not be given a new one at Lima. When his number came up for draft here in Appleton, he would be called and his enlistment in the selective service training program would be credited to this district.

The Appleton district induction station is Wausau, but the young man would not be required to go there. Instead, he would be sent to the induction station which handled draftees from Lima, Ohio.

Some folks still can't believe their eyes

GOING over Buick dealers' reports on our 1941 models, we find an unusual thing happening.

Time and again cars come in for the usual inspections with an extra note of instructions—"Please check the gas gauge needle."

Even after hundreds of miles, people mistrust their eyes when they see its snail-like pace from the Full mark toward Empty—they don't see how it's possible for a car as big as Buick to go so far on so little.

But it does—and for good reasons.

The whole FIREBALL engine was designed and built to get the most good out of modern gasolines.

And the simple secret of Compound Carburetion is that it keeps your engine running on its most frugal diet for all normal driving—and provides full feed only when you need, want and call for the lift of extra wallop.

Meantime even the gears are helping save money—for the regular high gear in a Buick gives you the economy of the so-called "gas-saving" top speeds you hear about.

The big thing is, of course, that this is no small car that's setting these economy figures. There are all the room, size, impressiveness, comfort and downright thrilling performance you expect from a Buick.

So it isn't because the needle's out of kilter that it goes down so slowly. It's simply because it's in a FIREBALL Buick.

FRIDAY'S GAMES

Sheboygan Central at West.
East at Sheboygan North.
Oshkosh at Appleton.
Manitowoc at Fond du Lac.

Appleton High school basketball team, perched in the first division of the Fox Valley conference by virtue of a 1-point win in the last four seconds over Green Bay East last week, goes into its second conference game here tonight against Oshkosh. The game will start at 8:15 with reserve teams from the two schools playing the usual preliminary.

The Terrors have won two non-conference and one conference game to date and have looked fairly good in their efforts. However, the conference test Friday showed the Terrors are inclined to take things rather easy in the expectation they can spurt in the last minutes.

SPECIAL ATTRACTION

A "giant" basketball game will be staged at the senior high gym this evening between halves of the varsity game, it has been announced. It will show the ten heaviest lightweights in the school playing basketball with—wait until you see! The extra attraction has been arranged to break up the dull period during which the teams are resting.

utes and win. Their shooting is a bit erratic, too. Last week the two forwards accounted for 24 of their points indicating that the scoring efforts of the center and two guards could be better.

Oshkosh dropped its opener to Sheboygan Central, 23 to 18. Central is favored in the race and Oshkosh rated highly. Last year the teams finished in a first place tie, Appleton being one of the squads which ousted the Oshkosh five from lone possession of the honor.

Both teams have been scouted. Coach Jack Nussbaum of Oshkosh having watched Appleton against New London whereas Coach Myron Seims of Appleton watched Oshkosh beat Ripon Tuesday night at Oshkosh.

Reports are the teams have an equal number of veterans but that Oshkosh probably will have an advantage in height. In the Oshkosh-Ripon game, Roe, DeVoe, C. Dahl and Arden Luker of grid fame accounted for most of the Oshkosh points.

Appleton's starting lineup undoubtedly will be the same as last week. John Bartman and Bob Bowers will be at the forwards, Stewart Cooper at center and Bill Burton and Chuck Kliefoth at the guards. Another possibility at guard is Bill DeLong.

In the other league games, Sheboygan Central goes to Green Bay West and is expected to win easily; Green Bay East goes to Sheboygan North and if it shoots as well as it did against Appleton, will annex a win; and Manitowoc tests Fond du Lac with the Ships favored because of the efforts of a big center.

Conference scoring records show that Appleton scored the most points last week in winning from East. They also show that the Terror defense tied for most points allowed.

Individual scoring records indicate that Zimmerman, Manitowoc's center, leads the parade with 17 points on eight goals and a free throw. Then come Appleton's two forwards, John Bartman and Bob Bowers, with 12 points each. Kuehler of Fond du Lac is fourth with 10 points.

PISTOL POINTERS

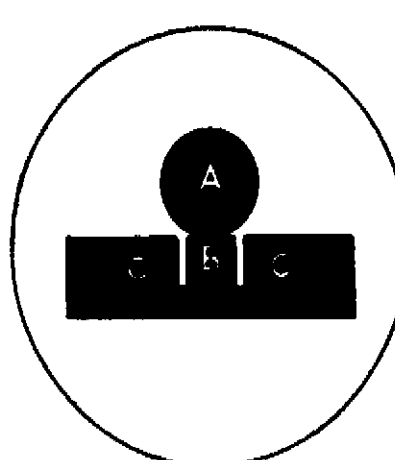

BY ALFRED HEMMING

Top-Ranking Pistol Marksman

SIGHT ALIGNMENT. The illustration shows the position of the front and rear sights in relation to each other, the top of the front sight (C), directly in the center of the notch with the bull's eye (A) exactly above. For slow fire shooting, hold the front sight at six o'clock with no white showing. If you hold in the center of the bull's eye or allow a small amount of white to show between the bull's eye and the front sight, you will find a tendency to string your shots up and down.

By now you have probably discovered it is impossible for you to hold the gun motionless on the target. If so, don't be at all discouraged for nobody can hold a handgun motionless in aiming position. There is always some motion. Training will go a long way toward reducing the sway, but it can never be entirely overcome.

This leads us to the most important phase of pistol shooting, trigger squeeze. The way to develop this properly is by practice with an empty gun. There is no tendency to jerk the trigger for you know there will be no recoil or loud report. In other words you remain relaxed. After correct trigger squeeze in dry practice becomes natural carry into your regular practice the thought that all you are doing is firing an empty gun.

and the trigger jerk will be gone. Carry on this snapping practice regularly five minutes each day in practice use an aiming bull's eye which at the shorter distance appears to be the same size as the regulation bull's eye at the standard distance. As you progress, you will unconsciously build up a muscular habit of increasing pressure on the trigger only at such times as the sights are correctly aligned on the target. All the while, in shooting, you must watch for shots completely out of your normal group which have been caused by a poor squeeze. Don't attempt to know when the gun is going to fire. Results will be better if you have a way of knowing when to jerk or flinch.

Carroll Rally Short; Pioneers Bow to Ripon

Ripon (1)—Ripon college defeated Carroll college 40 to 35 last night in the opening home game of the freshmen season.

Ripon had a 21 to 19 lead at the half, but Carroll came within two points of closing the gap in the closing minutes of the game.

Reege, Carroll guard, was high scorer with 15 points. Kremer, Ripon captain, collected 11 points.

Individual scoring records indicate that Zimmerman, Manitowoc's center, leads the parade with 17 points on eight goals and a free throw. Then come Appleton's two forwards, John Bartman and Bob Bowers, with 12 points each. Kuehler of Fond du Lac is fourth with 10 points.

Iowa Hawkeyes Will Oppose Wabash Quint

Chicago (7)—Iowa's Hawkeyes, who are promising more basketball fireworks this season than they managed in the last two Big Ten campaigns, get another pre-conference test tonight against Wabash college.

The Hawkeyes trounced Monmouth 75-35 in their opener, but expect to find the Crawfordsville, Ind., team a more difficult assignment.

Last Monday Wabash opposed Northwestern and gave the Wildcats all they could handle until late in the game when the Big Ten club edged in front, 35-32.

Iowa, which won only seven of its 24 Big Ten starts in the last two seasons, is the only conference member active tonight. Tomorrow, however, six schools resume their warm-up schedule, all with home games.

Iaaho is Minnesota's foe. Notre Dame will be at Wisconsin. Illinois Tech at Chicago. Marshall College at Indiana. Michigan Normal at Michigan and Butler at Ohio State.

Indiana took on Butler last night and registered its second straight triumph after a close game, 39 to 36.

Two members of the squad are former Appleton High school graduates. They are Jim and Bob Bailey, both guards, and the sons of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Bailey. This is Jim's second year on the team and Bob's first.

There will be a frosh-fraternity preliminary starting at 6:45.

Even with Snead and McSpaden were Byron Nelson of Toledo, Ohio, boozed three in a row. Hogan himself was six under with five holes to play, but he, too, slipped.

Hogan and Loving Are Tied for Lead; Shoot 3 Under Par

BY LARRY ROLLINS

Miami, Fla. (7)—A couple of guys named Ben paced the field into the second round of the $10,000 Miami open golf tournament today—each with a three-under-par 67.

One of them—Ben Hogan of White Plains, N. Y.—tightened his grip on the year's money-winning title. The other—Ben Loving of Springfield, Mass.—began his strongest bid for a tournament victory after years of campaigning.

Close in pursuit of the two Bens came Ed Dudley of Augusta, Ga., and Clayton Heafner of Linville, N. C., with a pair of 68's.

Sam Snead of Hot Springs, Va., still hopeful of wresting the money title and the Vardon trophy from Hogan, trailed by two shots at 69 with six others.

Chief of those was Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Winchester, Mass., pre-tournament favorite whose chances were hurt by a penalty stroke. McSpaden inadvertently touched the ball with his putter on the green and took an extra shot that gave him a five on a par three hole.

Steve Belloise Tries Again This Evening

BY GALE TALBOT

New York —(AP)— Having been chosen "most likely to succeed" by the fight critics after his first experience with Ken Overlin six weeks ago, young Steve Belloise of the Bronx will have another shot at the middleweight champ tonight at Madison Square Garden.

Steve earned the respect of the fight crowd by knocking Overlin very flat in the sixth round of their first meeting and then whaling him out of Overlin when he got up. It was a tribute to Overlin's gameness that he weathered the beating and came on to win the decision at the end of 15 rounds.

That was Belloise's first 15-round fight, and he said the only reason he let Overlin get away in the sixth was that he was afraid of wearing himself out early in the evening and not having anything left for the late stages.

From the ringside, though, it looked like Steve punched himself out. For nearly two minutes he had the ex-sailor virtually at his mercy, and he poured a withering fire to Overlin's unprotected jaw. Overlin reeled and wobbled around like a drunk on ice, but he never went down again and at the round's end Belloise was arm-weary and tripping over his own feet.

So that is the set-up as the veteran champion and the kid with rocks in his fists try it again. Belloise, having bounced Overlin off the floor once, is sure he can keep him there this time and win that portion of the 160-pound title which the New York state athletic commission is privileged to parcel out.

Overlin, on the opposite hand, frankly regards this one as an advance Christmas gift. He has reserved a table at his favorite dead-end for right after the fight, which he looks upon as a mere formality. The champion is something of a card.

He says he learned all he needed to know about Belloise the other time, and that the kid will never, never pop him again like that. But if he should accidentally run into one, he says he will get up again and give Steve another hiding, only worse this time. The gamblers are giving no odds either way.

This observer, though confident that Belloise will be middleweight champion one of these days, feels that he needs another boxing lesson or two from Overlin to take off the rough edges. He should be a beauty by the time he completes the course.

WINTER WALKING WARNINGS

By Sig Olson

When it comes to going about on foot in winter weather there are many things which should be taken into consideration. The first of these is the footwear which is next to the feet of the hiker. This must be warm, comfortable, and never tight-fitting. It should also be protective against the wet for there may be thaws even in the winter time.

Shoe pacs have proven fine footwear during cold weather but the moccasin type is not for all as it doesn't give sufficient arch support for many of those who have worn relatively high heels all of their lives. Most pacs are now made of well-oiled leather for water proofing or else are of rubber which will withstand dampness. In any case the footwear should be large enough so that woolen stockings may be worn without binding the feet and stopping adequate circulation. It is not wise to wear too many pairs of socks even though these are of the finest wool. One or two pairs should be ample and give body circulation a chance. Some foolishly wear many more pairs and bind their feet badly.

No one should venture for any great distance through the heavy snow without some aid as snowshoes or skis. The former are much easier for the novice to handle and may be used readily by anyone who knows how to walk properly. Skis require practice and the development of a technique before they can be handled. The wearer must learn that knack of relaxing his knees which is essential and without which ski travel is a hardship.

The character of the land over which a hike is made has much to do with what should be worn. Skis are only for the experts when traveling through dense brush. The novice will get all tangled up and find himself falling in the snow banks more often than upright. Snowshoes are much easier to handle in thickets.

Hilly country is difficult for the novice on skis. He will eventually learn to use sticks for making the grades and will learn to place the skis at a slant but for the average inexperienced snow hiker, here again, snowshoes are more practical.

The novice doesn't understand how hiking through deep snow will wear him down if he doesn't wear snowshoes or skis and may easily become over exhausted. Better to stay at home than to overdo.

Hortonville Five Will Be at Home Tonight

Hortonville—Word was received here this morning that the Hortonville-Winneconne basketball game at Winneconne has been postponed by officials of the latter school. An epidemic of scarlet fever at Winneconne prompted the decision. The schools are in the Little Nine conference.

Hortonville will play at home tonight as result of the postponement. The Polar Bears will meet Pulaski high.

CONFIDENT OF WIN—Steve Belloise, above, battles Ken Overlin for the middleweight championship tonight in Madison Square Garden. They fought several weeks ago and while Belloise had Overlin on the floor and badly battered, he couldn't put him away. He has assured followers he'll win this trip.

Chicago Track Victors To Run at Santa Anita
Los Angeles —(AP)—An impressive and record number of candidates, including Porter's Cap, winner of the Chicago Washington Park futurity, and Swain, the Chicago Arlington futurity champion, has been nominated for the seventh running of the $50,000 Santa Anita derby Feb. 12.

General Manager Charles H. Strub of the Los Angeles Turf club announced the list of candidates today. A total of 140 was nominated, 17 more than the record high named for the last Santa Anita derby.

Gary Negroes Win Three Out Of Four Bouts

Johnny Dux, Fondy Heavyweight, Victor Over Ernie Nordman

THE RESULTS
Willie Jones, Gary, Ind., defeated Alvin Bevil, Chicago, in five rounds at 123 pounds.
Johnny Dux, Fond du Lac, defeated Ernie Nordman, Omaha, Neb., in five rounds, heavyweights.
Willie Morton, Gary, Ind., defeated Charles Bankstone, Chicago, in three rounds at 160 pounds.
Ralph Manjaerz, Chicago, defeated Al Walker, Gary, Ind., in three rounds at 135 pounds.
Charles Wells, Gary, Ind., defeated Joe Baldassano, Chicago, three rounds at 147 pounds.
George Foskett, Watertown, defeated Bob Hannes, Oshkosh, three rounds at 165 pounds.
Max Seglink, Appleton, stopped Al Bond, Fond du Lac, in second round at 165 pounds.

Gary, Ind., Negro boxers took three of the four bouts in which they engaged in the amateur program presented by Oney Johnston post of the American Legion at Armory D last night. The card was offered to a fair sized audience which had little reason to get excited over the efforts.

Willie Jones of Gary took the evening's final bout from Alvin Bevil, Chicago, a substitute performer. During the first two rounds, the scoring was fairly even but during the last three Jones had a decided advantage and won going away. The game wasn't anything to arouse the fans, however, for both fighters did a lot of in fighting where they could pull punches and still make it look good.

Dux Is Winner
Johnny Dux, Fond du Lac, got a decision over Ernie Nordman, Omaha, Neb., in the other windup. Both are white boys. Nordman was taller and had an edge in reach over Dux but Johnny was the aggressor and thereby won the nod. Nordman fought only in the final round after he and Jabber Young, Chicago boxing instructor who brought him here, staged a verbal battle in the corner and Young finally walked away and left the big fellow to shift for himself. During the argument the fans had an opportunity to exercise their vocal cords by giving Jabber "the bird."

Willie Morton, Gary Negro, knock-kneed but faster than a cat in spite of it, gave Charles Bankstone, Chicago Negro, a neat lacing. In the first two frames, Bankstone spent most of his time covering up and looking out from behind his gloves. Morton battered him around as he pleased. In the third frame Bankstone decided to come out of his shell and fight which prompted Morton to clown a bit. Bankstone hit Morton often but the Gary Negro returned blow for blow and during the last 30 seconds Bankstone was back on the defensive.

Al Walker was the only Gary boxer to lose. He dropped a decision to a more experienced performer in Ralph Manjaerz, Chicago. Walker was a fair boxer but he couldn't

FWD BOWLING LEAGUE

Clintonville—High scores were at a premium this week when the FWD Office keepers met for their matches.

The tie for first place honors was broken when the Purchasers took two out of three from the Accountants, while the best the Engineers could do was to snare one from Eastern Sales.

In the remaining matches, Shop Office had an easy time taking two from the winners of the first round, the Cost Department, while Parts & Service, in spite of a low three game series, took two from the Advertisers.

Girls List Grievances Against Their Mothers

BY DOROTHY DIX

It is not to be denied that the average teen-age girl and her mama are not on the harmonious terms that should exist between a mother and daughter. Later on, when the girl is out in the great cold world on her own, and when she has daughters to deal with, she will appreciate and understand her mother, but in her adolescence there is a perpetual conflict between her and Mother over clothes, dates, hair-dos, lipstick, not coming straight home from parties and movies on school night, and so on, that makes home about as peaceful as a battle ground during a major engagement. Now it chanced that the other day I fell in with a group of these belligerent daughters, and I asked them what it was that Mother did that got so badly on their nerves, and what they considered her chief fault in dealing with them. They pondered this problem for a moment and then one said: "I think the thing we object to most in our mothers is their babying us. It makes us fighting mad to be treated as if we were 3-year-old kids who didn't have enough sense to come in out of the rain, and who couldn't be trusted to walk around the block without somebody holding our hands. Why mothers can't realize that we don't always stay infants in perambulators and that we grow up and want to stand on our own feet and have some independence, I don't know. But they don't and most of our quarrels with Mother are over what people have always fought for—personal liberty."

"That's true," said the second girl.

"Now I love my mother and admire her, but the thing that burns me up is that she expects me to be a rubber stamp of herself and to have exactly the same tastes and desires that she has."

"She picks out all of my clothes for me, and I hate 'em, because what I want is a snappy sport outfit, and what she buys me are soft, clingy, pastel-shade chiffons."

Likes and Dislikes

"She just can't understand why I like jazz when she likes symphony concerts, and why I like to play golf, while she likes to sit at home and knit things."

"And when I prefer a boy who looks as if his clothes had been thrown at him with a pitchfork but who has pep and character and intelligence to some little sissy college-horse who will never have two ideas in his head at the same time, she says she just doesn't know what girls are coming to these days."

"My mother is a chronic fault-finder," said the third girl. "Nothing I do ever pleases her. She can always pick some defect in it. If I get a good report at school, she wants to know why it isn't a hundred per cent perfect."

"If I put on a blue dress, one which I didn't put on a red one. She is continually telling me to sit up straight. To hold my shoulders back. Not to eat fattening foods. To do my hair a different way. Not to use lipstick."

Can't Stand Naggings

"If I want to go to a movie, it is always one of which she disapproves. And she always picks all of my girl friends and boy friends to pieces, to their very bones, until they haven't a single good quality left. What I resent is practically having to live in a House of Correction."

"My mother nags me until I nearly go wild," said the fourth girl. "She can't say a thing once and let it go at that. She tells me a million times about brushing my teeth and wearing my rubbers and to watch out for automobiles until I want to scream."

"And she puts me through the third degree. Every time I go out of the house I have to give an account of where I went, what I did, whom I saw, what they said to me and what I said to them."

"She opens my letters and reads them before I see them, and she listens in on every telephone conversation. I'd like to tell her things if she would just want and let me do it, but when she pries into my affairs, it is just vulgar curiosity, even if she is my mother, and I shut up like a clam."

The World Has Changed

"My mother," said the fifth girl, "hasn't found out that the world has changed any since she was a girl, and she is always trying to fit me into the pattern of her own girlhood."

"She is shocked to death at my using make-up, and tells me that in her day no respectable girl would have thought of painting her face or of wearing short skirts, and that

SANTA GIANT-KILLER

BY SIGRID ARNE

THE STORY SO FAR: Eric, a fisherman's son who must prove he is brave enough to be king, is following a giant to take him prisoner. The giant thinks he is the sun.

Chapter Eleven
Trick Puts Giant Fast Asleep

Through the next six days and nights the giant who thought he was the sun kept right on. Up mountains and down them. Along roads that led through farm lands. Each morning he washed his face and looked as strong as ever.

So Eric began to think very fast. There was just one day and night left. You remember the giant had said he could walk 30 days and nights and then one better. That made 31.

Eric soon had a plan. He whispered to his winged horse. "Fly close to the giant's left ear. I want to talk with him."

So the horse flapped his great wings and Eric found himself flying right next to the giant's left ear just at dawn. The sun had not yet risen. But across the next hill Eric could see a lake toward which the giant was walking.

"Sire," shouted Eric. "I have noticed a very queer thing about your trip."

"What is that?" shouted the giant so loudly that the trees along the road twisted their branches as though they were in a storm.

"I have noticed that each morning after you have washed your face the bright light that seems to flow from your head is less. You will soon be dull as an agate."

Sounded Like Thunder

"What?" shouted the giant. This time he sounded like thunder. Eric was frightened but he held his horse right by the giant's left ear.

"What I say is true, Sire," said Eric.

"Humph!" said the giant. But he walked right by the lake. He walked by a stream. He walked by a river. He didn't stop that day at all. By mid-afternoon his big knuckles were dragging on the ground. By sunset his shoulders were so drooped they could have held a wagon and a team of horses. By nightfall he was breathing so hard that clouds skudded down the sky ahead of him. Eric watched and chuckled.

By midnight the giant could walk no more. He turned off into a woodland, lay down and began to snore. Then Eric heard shouting and laughter from across the hills. And in the bright moonlight he could see hundreds of men, women and children running toward him. They informed a great circle and danced around him shouting. "The spell is broken. He will sleep now for thirty-one days and nights."

Chained to Mill Wheels

Eric knew he had won over the first giant, and he felt very glad. "Men," he shouted, "what use have you for this giant? We must set to work to build him a prison."

"Oh, we already have a fine one," said a tall man with ruddy cheeks. "It is the mill. I am the Queen's miller. I have a fine, big stone mill. But in recent years the river that turns the mill wheels has had less and less water in it. So I am hard pushed to grind out a good supply of winter flour. We could forge huge iron chains and harness the giant to the mill wheels."

So that is what they did. They forged chains so huge that it took two horses to haul one link away from the smithy. It took a hundred horses to haul the sleeping giant across the roads to the mill. And when the 31 days were up the giant was solidly chained to the mill wheels.

For all I know he is still there turning the mill wheels and grinding out good flour for the villagers' winter supply.

HOLIDAY CAKES

Christmas! Then, if ever, come perfect days for cookery! For of all the tempting fragrance and exciting sounds that come from the kitchen none quite matches those of holiday preparations.

Cakes especially tend themselves to suitable decorations, and a little time and patience will result in a dessert with a truly festive air.

Make the Christmas snow cake for Christmas or New Year's open house, for a wedding reception or for any occasion which might be graced by the presence of a fluffy fine textured cake with fruity egg nog filling and thick soft white frosting. The holiday cake is ideal when friends drop in during the gala holidays for teas and informal parties.

Christmas Snow Cake

1 cup butter
2 cups sugar
3 cups sifted cake flour
1 teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup milk
12 teaspoons vanilla
6 egg whites.

Cream the butter thoroughly until very light. Add sugar a little at a time and beat until well mixed together? Another question, (b) Is it an infallible rule that the bride's mother and other women members of her family be invited to parties like this one given in her honor? (c) And what about the groom's mother and sisters?

Answer: (a) If the present is something you know she wants, I agree thoroughly with the silliness of the trifles. The typical shower, however, suggests a lot of separate packages. (b) No, positively not. (c) No, not unless the sisters belong in the same small group.

A Soup Plate Without a Rim

Dear Mrs. Post: You have said that if the large soup plate has a rim it may be carried to the table and stood on the service plate with which each place is set. But what is the rule when the soup plates have no rims? Does this mean that they have to be carried to the table on a plate, and if so, is this plate stood on the serving plate or must the service plates be lifted before the other plates are put down? Why in this case does the fact of a rim make all this difference?

Answer: Without a rim it is almost impossible to take hold of the soup plate—at least not without giving the unpleasant suggestion of a thumb in the soup! Therefore, it should be brought in on a plate, which is exchanged for the service plate.

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad however to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "Names and Signatures—Suffixes" Be sure to send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post, in care of this paper, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y.

Dear Mrs. Post: (a) Don't you think it a silly idea to give the bride-to-be a lot of little things that she could easily buy herself instead of one very lovely shower present from the twelve of us to-

Give Children Christmas Toys That are Different

BY ANGELO PATRI

There comes a time when children weary of the toys they have. The fluffy bear is just a soft bundle of fuzz and the little red wagon is "no good." The doll is stuffed with sawdust and the cherished ball is under the bed where it can stay undisturbed as far as its owner cares. The little child is standing looking over the fence that has been set, quite unconsciously, by the older people, between the fantasy of infancy and the actuality of childhood. Toys are beginning to lose meaning and actual things to appear interesting. The child wants to know and to understand some of the things that are going on about him. He needs a different kind of toy.

I like to give this child a magnifying glass and show him how it works. He only has to have a hint to start out exploring the old world he thought he knew so well and find in it the strangest and loveliest of wonders. He looks at the end of the dog's nose and is thrilled. The flowers are lovelier than ever he dreamed. The caterpillars and butterflies are fairylike. The glass opens a fairyland to him.

Fountains of Knowledge

A magnet is a grand discovery. Everything in and about the house is tested. The world of wonder that this bit of steel controls is a new and astonishing as well as a delightful one for the searching child. As he begins to understand its implications another world looms above his horizon.

A little microscope is an "open sesame" that gives children an altogether new slant on nature. The lens changes the ordinary familiar thing into something strange and wonderful, so that to this child there is nothing ordinary in this world. It becomes a world of mystery and beauty, of promise and hope. It becomes a world in which nothing is just what it seems and everything is something richer, duller, more meaningful than knowledge can allow.

A chemistry set in the hands of a school child becomes the doorway to a new world. The secrets of the universe are just beyond those bottles and tubes. Just beyond. Always beyond and always beckoning to a greater truth and a newer beauty.

Nothing Better than Camera

Then the camera. No matter what other toy a child owns this one must be his. With it he makes the record of his days, his joys, pleasures, and griefs; his work and its successes as well as failures. He uses it to make notes for reports and he uses the pictures instead of reports. Used intelligently a camera becomes not only an all-seeing eye but a doing pair of hands. It extends the child's pedantry tremendously.

A magnifying glass, a microscope, a magnet, a chemistry set, a camera, a book. Given these, any one of them, or any combination of them, a child has his world in his hand. They ought to become his one by one, at long intervals, according to his tastes and power, but he should own them. They are tools by which he makes his way out of childhood into maturity, a maturity of knowledge and power.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Case Records of a Psychologist

By Dr. George W. Crane

Psychologist, Northwestern University

The aspiration of newspaper reporters is to scoop the rival paper by an hour or two in releasing a story to the public. But scoops may also consist of the release of scientific facts that have been too long hidden from a public that is thirsting for such vital knowledge. Your editor scoops his rivals frequently by various scientific discussions of love and marital problems which are contained in this column but have never appeared in any other column. Judging by the progressiveness of your editor in contrast to the others mentioned below, it may be ten years, too, before other newspapers offer readers what you are getting now.

Honestly Or Hypocrisy

If he is ultra-conservative in every other department of his newspaper, then he is honest, at any rate, in objecting to my use of a simple sentence of fact in a scientific column, buried somewhere in his newspaper.

But I have other cases, one right here in Chicago, where an editor who salaciously plays up pictures and runs not only the pictures of the unfortunate girls, but wantonly lists their names, the places where they work and all such intimate details, called me to task and deleted part of my column because I used the word "sexual" therein. "We're a family newspaper, you know!" he explained.

A strong newspaper cannot be built upon such hypocrisy. His behavior well illustrates the adage about straining at a gnat but swallowing a camel.

A strong newspaper must be honest and also stay in the van of human thinking, or it will soon show evidence in its shrinking circulation that the public is moving ahead of it.

Scientific Scoops For Newspapers

Scoops for newspapers have too long been thought of with reference to the time factor. If one paper scoops another by an hour, then it brags about the fact.

But it can also scoop its rival by offering sound and much needed scientific advice to those readers who are crying out for enlightenment in a prudish generation which still tries to pawn off the stork story on scientifically curious youngsters with a thirst for knowledge.

The physicians of the country believe in making knowledge available to everybody. We don't believe in making knowledge available in similar vein, I try to remove the secrecy from vital facts that should be a-b-c stuff to every intelligent child as well as adult. What I cannot say in this column, I put in the bulletins which any of you may receive.

DIAGNOSIS:

Compliments like Susan's are always quite acceptable to me and to your editor who was courageous enough to stand behind this column and offer it in your community.

Perhaps you think I am exaggerating. Just last week one editor cancelled this column because I used a sentence to which he objected.

Maybe this indignant editor never ran a story about local assaults upon girls and women. Maybe he never permits ads for burlesque shows. Possibly he doesn't instruct his photographers to insist that divorcees pull their skirts half way above my lips lightly. I felt and looked like myself!"

Regarding Day Make-Up

If you youngsters would like to know what a screen actress uses on her face for daytime make-up, when she is not acting before the camera, listen to Lucille's testimony: "My street make-up is very simple. I begin with a powder base which is light in texture of a color which matches my current skin shade. I apply it lightly with a fresh sponge. Too much powder bases gives your face a pasty look so I try to avoid that. When my skin is nicely tanned or when the weather is moist and warm I omit the base altogether."

"When this base has dried I apply a touch of dry rouge with a long-handled brush which is about a half-inch wide. I like brushes for make-up because I think they create a more natural effect."

"But let me warn you about rouge—use it ever so sparingly. Rouge acts as a highlight and a shadow—that's why it takes expert application. Apply it to the highest point of the cheek and blend it to no color at the edges. Never let it touch laugh or sun lines at the corners of the eyes or mouth for rouge accents wrinkles.

"I brush my lashes and brows free of powder and leave them that way and I prefer a clear, bright lipstick for daylight wear rather than the deeper, dusky shades. I confess, however, that I frequently change the shape of my lips with lip color. Just a whim most women indulge in."

For Evening Wear

"For some evening occasions I wear eyeshadow, mascara and accent my brows with pencil. I think that too much eye make-up makes a girl self-conscious and she cannot act her natural, charming self. That, of course, is a mistake. If you apply your make-up cleverly at home you should be able to forget all about your face while you are out."

"You notice I didn't say anything about using powder. I don't use it. I feel that the moist look the powder-base gives my skin is prettier than a dull, powdered look. There are times, too, when I do not wear rouge in daylight hours."

Dr. Crane will give personal attention to questions on Psychology problems. Write him, in care of the Appleton Post-Crescent, enclosing a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope and a dime to cover printing and typing costs. Letters and reader's names are never published.

Refugees Swell Ranks Of Experts

BY ELY CULBERTSON

Refugees flocking to these shores from stricken lands abroad are perceptibly swelling the ranks of our expert bridge players. Europe's loss is our gain, and we extend cordial, even a grateful welcome.

Some very fine bridge used to be played in Vienna, Budapest, Amsterdam, and other centers where, today, conditions are not exactly ideal for quiet concentration or calm analysis. I am indebted for today's remarkable hand (and analysis) to Dr. Robert Brunner, late of Berlin, now (happily) of New York.

| South | West | North | East |
|------------|------------|----------|------------|
| 1 heart | 2 diamonds | Pass | 3 diamonds |
| 4 diamonds | Pass | 4 hearts | Double |
| Pass | Pass | Pass | Pass |

The ace of diamonds was led, and,uffed by South. The trump ace was laid down to test the trump situation and, when West showed out, declarer cashed the ace and king of spades, then ruffed a spade. The trump ten was returned and, not unaturally wanting to preserve his trump trick, East refused to cover. Now, however, declarer was home. He led a club from dummy and, whether or not East played the ace, declarer could not be stopped from making one club trick and all six of his trumps (by merely exiting in clubs and forcing the defenders to lead diamonds or trumps).

There was nothing remarkable about the play of the hand, but the post-mortem revealed some very interesting facts. The first was that East could have defeated the contract by sacrificing his trump trick, that is, by covering dummy's ten spot. South then could have drawn East's trumps easily enough, but would not have been able to establish a single club trick.

One of the players suggested that this line of successful defense might be vilified by the lead of a club, instead of the heart ten from dummy. On first analysis, this view seemed correct. If East put up the ace and pumped declarer again in diamonds declarer would, as before, cash one club trick and make all his trumps merely by using his low clubs as exit cards. If East ducked the club play from dummy, declarer would, of course, put up his king with the same result.

To show how far analysis must go, however, to be really conclusive, it was found that a defense existed against this line of attack, allowing a camel.

A strong newspaper must be honest and also stay in the van of human thinking, or it will soon show evidence in its shrinking circulation that the public is moving ahead of it.

Basque Frock

BY ANNE ADAMS

Your little girl will resemble her favorite story-book heroine in this pet frock by Anne Adams. Pattern 4529. Made in blithe basque style, the two-piece bias skirt flares for style and action. That pointed front waist-seam and the trim panelled bodice are most becoming; the sleeves are long and full or short and puffed. Enchanting pinafore touches are added by gay ruffles and a perky bow-tying sash. Another version of this pattern shows a contrast of ruffles, perhaps with a matching skirt. The optional collar might be in contrast too. If you want a more tailored frock, make the button-trimmed version without collar or ruffles. Bloomers or panties are included in this adorable styles.

Pattern 4529 is available in children's sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6, short sleeve dress, takes 2 1/2 yards 35 inch fabric; long sleeve dress, 1 1/2 yards 54 inch fabric.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number.

Send your order to Appleton Post-Crescent, Pattern Department, 243 West 17th St., New York, N. Y.

The Road to Shani Lun

By Rita Mohler Hanson

YESTERDAY: Lynn Britton, beautiful American girl destined so far as she can tell to marry the Prince of Shani Lun, is at present dodging Chinese revolutionaries and trading across the plain afoot. Temu Darin, her "escort," has lost his plane in a storm, and now must guard Lynn and arrange to send their unwelcome companion, Peggy Telford, back to the coast.

Chapter 25
Strange Blessing

Lynn turned to Temu. "Do you expect to walk Peggy and me all the way to Dolun?" He had relieved Chan of some of his burden.

"I hope I won't walk you all the distance. Your friend is leaving the first chance I have to send her back."

Lynn's shoulders squared. "I'd like to see you send her and keep me without unpleasant consequences to your government. I notice you don't always secure your own way."

He agreed. "If I had my way now, we wouldn't be here. But, since we are here—" He looked at her and smiled. She understood; he intended to make the best of it.

Peggy caught up with them in her absurd moccasins and hung to Temu's arm for a while. They passed a woman and her old mother, the latter miming along on little goatlike feet which were bound in remembrance of the "gold old days." They carried their possessions in bundles on their backs, and herded ahead of them a blind girl carrying a younger child pick-a-back.

After crossing the wide plateau they came to a ridge of green hills. Temu stopped a tall, red-robed lama riding a tiny donkey. The priest lowered his feet, permitting the little animal to walk from under him and begin cropping the short green grass at the edge of the trail.

The lama explained that his monastery was located up a side canyon a bit and insisted that Temu and his party take refuge within

2,000 Expected At Dedication of K-C Mill, Bridge

Talks, Tours of New Mill and Dance Will Feature Day's Events

Neenah — More than 2,000 employees and members of their families are expected to attend the dedication of the Kimberly-Clark corporation's new Badger-Globe mill and bridge Saturday.

The ceremony will get underway at 2 o'clock in the afternoon with the dedication of the bridge. The Kimberly-Clark employees band, under the direction of Lester Maik, will play for about 15 minutes and then Mayor Edwin A. Kalfas and F. J. Sensenbrenner, president, will cut the ribbon and give short dedicatory talks.

The band will lead the spectators into the new mill where the audience will be conducted on tours of the new plant. During this time, the band will give a concert, and afterwards, Ernst Mahler, executive vice president, and the mayor and Mr. Sensenbrenner will talk. Further tours of the mill then will be conducted and the band will play.

Beginning at 8 o'clock, a dance, which is being sponsored by the band, will be held for employees and their families, and an out of town orchestra will furnish the music.

The committees in charge of the program are as follows: Building preparations, J. H. Kimberly and Clarence Lande; band, Donnie Brown and Phillip Lewis; speakers, J. H. Kimberly, William Kellett and Forrest Werling; open house, Les Johnson, James Murphy, George Kronschnabel, Leo Madison; orchestra, J. H. Kimberly, Robert DeWilde; publicity, Robert Wood and Robert Mott.

Milwaukee Is Picked by FOE

National and State Meetings of Eagles Scheduled in August

Milwaukee — The 1941 national convention of the Fraternal Order of Eagles will be held in Milwaukee from Aug. 11 to 18.

Milwaukee thus will be host to the nation's two largest conventions next year. The national American Legion convention, conceded to be the largest, will be held here in September.

Final decision rested with Conrad H. Mann, of Kansas City, chief auditor of the Eagles. He made the selection after conferring with Mayor Carl Zeidler and city and fraternal officials.

Robert W. Hansen, grand national trustee, said that "it will be America's second largest national convention and will bring about 50,000 registered Eagle visitors to the city."

The eagles state convention also will be held here in conjunction with the national session. Hansen said that Manitowish, which had been selected for the state convocation, had relinquished its rights yesterday.

Mayor Zeidler said:

"For the first time in the history of Milwaukee as an outstanding convention city we will in 1941 have the nation's two largest conventions. . . . With the mid-summer festival and other conventions already scheduled, Milwaukee is now sure to overshadow all other cities in the western hemisphere as a gathering point for summer visitors."

Expect to Reach 100 Mark in New Homes at Neenah

Neenah — John Blenker, city building inspector, said today that Neenah practically is assured of reaching the century mark in new home construction this year.

A permit for the construction of the ninety-eighth new dwelling was granted this morning and, although there are only 21 weeks remaining, at least two more permits are expected to be taken out shortly.

Theodore Utschiz, Appleton contractor, will build the ninety-eighth new home and garage on Hazel street at a cost of $4,400. It will be of frame construction and 1 1/2 stories high. The dwelling will be 22 by 23 feet. The house will consist of five rooms and a bathroom and it will have a concrete block basement.

The Twin Cities office of the Appleton Post-Crescent for its editorial, circulation and display advertising departments is located at 510 N. Commercial street, and the telephone number is 4100. News items, copy or orders for display advertising and orders for subscriptions may be left at the office or telephoned. Orders for classified advertising should be placed by telephoning 543 in Appleton, and the cost of the telephone call will be rebated. The Twin Cities office closes at 7 o'clock in the evening.

64 Cents of Tax Dollar Will Go to Schools, County, State

Neenah — About 64 cents out of every dollar paid in Neenah 1941 taxes will go to the local school system and the county and state governments, according to the tax levy informally agreed upon by the city council at a meeting Wednesday night.

The council agreed to adopt a tax rate of $24 per $1,000 of assessed valuation Wednesday night, a reduction of $1. The tax levy will amount to $443,482.08, while expenditures will total $694,961.65. Revenue the city will receive other than local taxes is estimated at $251,479.57.

Out of every dollar paid in taxes next year, the city schools will draw about 44.4 cents. This includes 65 cents for school bonds and interest, 33.8 cents for operations of the city schools, and 47 cents for the vocational school.

Taxes the city will pay to Winnebago county and the state governments will take about 19.6 cents out of every dollar that taxpayers remit to the city treasurer next year. The county tax and the county school tax will draw 17.1 cents out of each tax dollar, while the state tax and state special tax will receive 2.5 cents.

92 Cents For Sewers

The next largest amount drawn from each tax dollar next year will be for sewers, approximately 92

Ansorge Names Varsity Squad

Menasha High Cagers Open League Season At Clintonville Tonight

Menasha — Probable starters for Menasha High school cagers in their first Northeastern Wisconsin conference contest of the season tonight at Clintonville will be Fred Landskron at center, Richard Landskron and Ray Wippich at forwards and Harold Block and Roland O'Brien at guards, according to Coach Leslie Ansorge.

Although Clintonville will have a decided advantage in height, the Menasha cagers are expected to come through with their first conference victory. The Bluejays won their only start this season, defeating Marinette 22 to 15. Clintonville won three straight games from non-conference opponents but then lost to New London and this week was drubbed by Marion.

Other varsity players named for the trip tonight are Dean Younger, Robert Baenke, John Skalmoski, Henry Osiewalski and Ray Michalekiewicz. Robert Nantke is the senior manager.

Menasha reserves will play their first game of the season in the preliminary tilt tonight. H. L. Sherman will handle the Bluejay reserves in all of their tilts.

Kimberly Parish Calls Pastor at Weyauwega

Weyauwega — The Rev. R. F. Peterson of the Weyauwega Presbyterian church has received a call to the Kimberly First Presbyterian church. The congregation will meet Tuesday, Dec. 17, to consider the proposed transfer. The Rev. Mr. Peterson succeeded the Rev. Everett Delware 4 1/2 years ago.

"Can I take three hours for lunch today? I wanna get your Christmas present."

Education Calls for Largest Share of Menasha 1941 Budget

Menasha — Education calls for the largest expenditure in the 1941 city of Menasha budget of $548,680.63, a study of the budget shows. The $100,000 city school budget is 18.2 per cent of the total budget while the $20,160 vocation school budget accounts for another 3.6 per cent.

While the city council granted the board of education $100,000 for 1941, the actual school budget is larger for the school system receives various state aids and other grants. The park system also is granted a budget of $8,000 but has additional income which likewise is not shown in the city budget.

All school aid, including city, vocational, and county school tax, amounts to 23.9 per cent of the total budget. The entire county and state tax of $79,503.85 amounts to 14.4 per cent of the total budget. The park budget of $8,000 is only 1.4 per cent of the total while the library budget, which receives a mill tax benefit according to the terms of the bequest, amounts to $14,061.38 and is 2.5 per cent of the total.

Payments on debts accumulated in the past take the fourth largest share of the budget, 11 per cent. Principal and interest payments during the year will amount to $60,462.50. The newly established reserve fund of $20,000 amounts to 3.6 per cent of the entire budget.

The sewerage commission allotment of $21,000 represents 3.8 per cent of the budget.

Maintenance of streets, highways, and bridges and improvement and development of new streets, including salaries, totals $66,480 and calls for 12.1 per cent of the entire budget. Police, fire and health protection totals $58,375 and represents 10.6 per cent of the total sum to be spent by the city next year. Including salaries, totals $66,480 and calls cost $27,060 or 4.9 per cent. Fire protection amounts to $21,695 or 3.9 per cent, and health protection totals $9,620 or 1.7 per cent.

Street lights and hydrant rental, amounting to $39,920, will take 7.2 per cent of the budget. Local relief, for which $25,500 has been set aside, amounts to 4.6 per cent of the budget. However, included in the state and county taxes are such items as old age assistance, poor relief, and soldiers' relief, which with the local expenditure, will total $38,901.25 or 7 per cent of the entire budget set aside for relief purposes.

Miscellaneous items such as salaries, administration, public buildings, election expense, assessment and equalization, insurance and contingency fund total $39,197.90 or 7.1 per cent of the total budget.

Christmas Dinner, Program Entertains Adriel Society

Neenah—Members of the Adriel society and their families were entertained at a 6 o'clock Christmas dinner and program in Our Saviour's English Lutheran church Thursday evening. More than 100 persons attended. Mrs. N. C. Jersild gave a reading and Elaine Mortenson presented piano selections after which the young people gave a program of Christmas carols and recitations. Mrs. Robert Kelleit read "How We Came to Have the First Christmas Tree. Louis Tarnow presented a cornet solo after which Mrs. Ove Morrell gave a reading, "From a Far Country" with Miss Christie Jersild providing the vocal selections which were a part of the reading.

About 40 members of the L. P. A. society of Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran church attended the Christmas party supper and social hour in the church Thursday evening. Carols were sung and gifts exchanged.

Plans have been made by the Ladies society of Trinity Lutheran church for a Christmas party Wednesday, Dec. 18, with exchange of gifts following a program of songs and games at the parish hall. Supper will be served at 5 o'clock. Mrs. Norman Koerwitz will be chairman of the Christmas party.

The Eclectic Reading Circle will meet at 7:45 Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Coon, 325 Adams street.

Neenah Eagle Auxiliary entertained at a Christmas party Thursday evening in Eagles hall. A 6 o'clock chicken dinner preceded the party. Fifty-three members and one guest attended. Gifts were exchanged and cards played during the evening with prizes going to Mrs. G. Loehning, Mrs. Dale Parsons, Mrs. August Klitzke, Mrs. L. Joane, Mrs. Fred Martin, Mrs. Lucille Seyler, Mrs. E. Nooyen, Mrs. Martha Borreson, Mrs. Ladona Hahn and Mrs. E. Larson in scholarship. Mrs. Hattie Williams and Mrs. B. Baskin in whist and Mrs. H. Kampo in bridge.

Start Installation of Gasoline Tank, Pump

Neenah—Street department employees today started to install a 1,500 gallon tank and electric gasoline pump at the city garage. The equipment was purchased by the street committee of which Alderman Paul Laemmrich is the chairman and the city will purchase gasoline in wholesale lots instead of distributing the business among retail dealers. The city, it is said, probably will save $1,200 a year on the quantity of gasoline used while the water and light department also will purchase its gasoline through the city station.

K. of C. Council Will Hear St. Mary Pastor

Neenah—The Rt. Rev. Msgr. John Hummel, pastor of St. Mary's parish, will speak following a dinner meeting of the council of the Knights of Columbus, at 6:30 Tuesday night at the lodge rooms. Father Hummel has made many trips to the old world and will discuss "The World Today." Pastors and assistants of Twin City Catholic churches will be guests at the meeting.

At the Jan. 21 meeting of the council the first decree will be conferred on a group of candidates from Oshkosh, Berlin, Chilton and Nicolet council. An informal dance for members and their friends will be held Jan. 28.

Church Will Dedicate Youth Stained Window

Neenah—The youth stained glass window at St. Thomas Episcopal church will be dedicated during the 9:30 church school service of carols and worship Sunday morning, Dec. 22.

The Christmas eve service at 11 o'clock Dec. 24 will be marked by the singing of Christmas carols by the choir. At 11:30 Christmas eve the midnight Eucharist will be celebrated. Holy communion will be at 10 o'clock Christmas morning.

Mrs. Nellie Strong Renamed President of Relief Corps

Neenah—Mrs. Nellie Strong was reelected president of the J. P. Shepard Woman's Relief corps Thursday afternoon at the meeting in S. A. Cook room. Mrs. Katherine Brown was named senior vice president; Mrs. M. Klutz, junior vice president; Mrs. Clara Winch, chaplain; Mrs. Nellie Smith, treasurer; Mrs. J. Pettigill, conductress; Mrs. M. Holmes, guard. Mrs. Klutz was named first delegate to the convention in June and Mrs. T. Robb, first alternate. Mrs. Winch was named second delegate and Mrs. Jennie Grode, second alternate. Plans were completed for the Christmas party Thursday, Dec. 19. The December birthday committee will be in charge.

The Christmas party of Court Altheus, Twin City Catholic Daughters of America, was attended by 80 persons Thursday evening in Knights of Columbus hall as a dinner preceded a program. Mrs. Rufus Clough told of Christmas in foreign lands after which she sang "Silent Night, Holy Night," accompanied at the piano and xylophone by her two sons, Miss Pauli Flewinger read a Christmas play, "Peace I Give to You" and dance numbers by the Warren School of Dance featured the program. Cards were played during the social hour with auction honors going to Miss Dorothy Stimp, Mrs. Al Christensen and Mrs. Anna Hecker and contract honors to Miss Helen Hauser, Mrs. H. Schmalz and Mrs. J. H. Schierl. Christmas decorations and a crib transformed the club rooms into the Christmas scene. A donation was made by the court to the crib for charity projects. Mrs. Ferdinand Young and Mrs. J. Liebi were co-chairmen.

The Wednesday night club which met Wednesday night this week held its party in honor of Mrs. Rex Bremmer who was observing her birthday anniversary. The party was held at the home of Miss Ella McClellan, 400 Nassau street. Honors in cards went to Miss Marjorie Ankam and Mrs. Rex Bremmer. The next meeting will be at Mrs. Bremmer's home at 232 1/2 Second street.

Plans for a Christmas party Dec. 19 to which the Ladies society members will be invited were completed at the Missionary Church meeting in Trinity Lutheran church parish hall Thursday afternoon. A covered dish luncheon is planned. Miss Louise Alvarez, Mrs. Marvin Franz and Miss Alverta Franz will be in charge of entertainment and Mrs. H. Gothe, Mrs. E. Dix and Mrs. William Karrow of the luncheon.

About 75 members of the Auxiliary to the Henry J. Lenz post, American Legion, attended the 6:30 dinner and Christmas party in Elks hall Thursday evening. Santa Claus distributed gifts during the evening. The guest prize went to Mrs. Alex Lax and 13 tables of cards were in play. The Christmas cookie sale has been postponed until Saturday, Dec. 21, at Hoffman's grocery.

Economics Club Music Group Will Give Christmas Program

Neenah—Miss Edna Robertson, chairman of the Music department of the Economics club of Menasha and Neenah, today announced the department's Christmas program which will be given at 8 o'clock Monday evening in the auditorium of the Eliza D. Smith library for club members and their friends.

Carrying candles to represent stars, members of the music department will enter the auditorium singing "Hark! The Herald Angels Sing." After the candles are placed, Mrs. John Handey will sing "Silent Night, Holy Night" with the club chorus accompanying her. Mrs. Mae Redner Johnson will sing "O Little Town of Bethlehem" and "O Come All Ye Faithful." Gifts of toys and food will be placed under the tree to be distributed among the charity groups. The tea committee will include Mrs. Paul Kalfas, Mrs. John O'Leary, Mrs. Walter Baerndsen, and Mrs. John Studley. Mrs. E. H. Schultz will be accompanist for the cantata and Miss Ruby Hart for the carols Mrs. G. A. Loehner is chorus director.

Improvisation on Eight Christmas Melodies will be played as a piano selection by Mrs. Annelle

Crash Injuries Prove Fatal to Medford Woman

Hurt in Collision Of Truck, Car Near Winchester Nov. 29

Neenah—Mrs. Herman Boltz, Sr., 64, Medford, died at 11:05 last night at Theda Clark hospital from injuries received in an accident Nov. 29 on Highway 110, three miles south of Winchester. Her skull was fractured.

The accident occurred when the car in which Mrs. Boltz was riding, driven by Elmer Joers, 36, Milwaukee, and a truck driven by Willard Olson, 24, route 1, Larson, collided at the top of a hill.

Joers suffered a lacerated knee and another passenger, Herman Streebig, Sheboygan Falls, received a neck injury. They were returning from a deer hunting trip and going south on Highway 110. The truck was coming onto the road from a driveway.

Dr. G. A. Steele, Winnebago county coroner, reported this morning there will be no inquest.

Junior Red Cross Members Address Menasha Groups

Neenah—As part of the Junior Red Cross program at Menasha High school, students are giving short talks before various groups. Barbara Sensesbrenner and William Dresser described the origin of the Red Cross and the work of the Junior Red Cross before members of the Junior Red Cross committee.

Marie Dornbrook and Helen Johnson spoke at a meeting of the Economics club of Neenah and Menasha Friday. Their subjects were "Christmas Spirit" and "In ternational Good Will" as exemplified by the Red Cross. Short talks on the same subjects were given at the Menasha High school Band Mothers meeting Wednesday by Bernita Moran and Mabel Landskron.

In her talk Bernita Moran described means of building good will toward Latin America, not only through diplomatic channels and speeches, but through educational radio programs, by travel, by entertainment and through various instruments purchased for that group for the band.

Marie Dornbrook described work done by the Red Cross to aid sufferers in China and in Europe.

Twin City Deaths Mrs. August Bussian

Neenah—Mrs. August Bussian, 77, 625 Oak street, Neenah, died at 3:45 this morning at her home after an illness of three months.

Mrs. Bussian, who was born in Pomerania, Germany, July 13, 1863, had lived in Neenah for 50 years. She came to America in 1880. She was a member of the Ladies Aid society of Trinity Lutheran church.

Survivors are the widower, three daughters, Anna and Mrs. Raymond Blasinzame, Neenah; and Mrs. Helmut Fritz, Milwaukee; a son, William, Neenah; two sisters in Germany and four grandchildren.

The funeral cortege will form at 1:30 Monday afternoon at the home and services will be at 2 o'clock at Trinity Lutheran church with the Rev. Gerhart Schaefer, pastor, in charge. Burial will be in Oak Hill cemetery. The body may be viewed at the home after 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

It Is Said----

That the Rev. W. L. Harms, pastor of the Whiting Memorial Baptist church and president of the Neenah Rotary club, was slightly confused at a meeting of the club Thursday at the Valley when he announced that "Immediately after the luncheon, the board of directors will hold a short service here."

The requests for these broadcasts by various participating police units were: Winnebago county, 1,291 calls; Outagamie county, 30; Wau-paca county, 30; Calumet county, 10; city of Oshkosh, 350; Neenah, 125; Menasha, 55; Appleton, 30; Kaukauna, 1; station-to-station calls, 410; and general items broadcasted, 63.

Hardwoods Gain Tie for Lead in Dartball League

Neenah—Hardwood Products climbed into a share of the lead with Trinity Lutheran church in the City Dartball league last night at the Neenah recreation building.

Hardwoods moved into the lead when they won two games from the Knights of Pythias and the Main Street Taverns won two games from the church team.

The taverns defeated the church outfit in a high scoring game, 21-14, 13-26, 22-17. E. Page paced the winners and J. Lewellyn led the losers. Hardwoods won from the Knights of Pythias, 8-1, 6-5, 5-12. G. Buss led the winners and E. Aderhold sparked the losers.

Odd fellows downed Krueger Hardwares, 1-0, 8-11, 10-8. H. McCarty was high for the winners and N. Hanselman led the losers. Haase, Klinken and Rhoades Clothing defeated Jandrey, 5-4, 2-1, 1-8. R. Larson was high for the winners and E. Haefs and A. Schultz paced the losers.

Three pages posted perfect scores, Page getting eight hits in as many tries, R. Neumeyer collecting six hits in six attempts, and R. Westfahl counting five in five.

Page and Buss turned in the best averages, the former getting 17 hits in 21 tries and Buss counting 10 hits in 15 tries.

The taverns set a new record when it scored 57 points in three games. The church team scored 23 points in one game.

Marion Landskron Is High in Banta Loop

Neenah—Marion Landskron hit a .501 series in the Banta Girls league Thursday on games of 195, 175 and 131.

Stanski, had the best game of 198 while Elaine Tuchscherer also scored a 195 game and had a 492 series.

Hearts rolled the best series of 1,847 and top game of 672. They won three games from the Diamonds to increase hold on first place when the Spades won only two from the Clubs.

City Ping-Pong Team To Meet Beaver Dam

Neenah—A squad of 10 ping-pong players from Neenah's city team will travel to Beaver Dam to average Neenah's first defeat of the season Sunday afternoon.

The ping-pongers are Louis Robbin, Donald Jape, Jack Lemberg, Glen Taft, Laverne Graham, Ray Neumever, Vernie Holliman, Wallace Sell, Lovellyn Holmbeck and Robert Mead.

The Neenah team lost to Beaver Dam, 33 to 8, in a round robin match here last Sunday. It was Neenah's first loss, and Beaver Dam is unbeaten.

Five Ring Officials Take W. I. A. A. Tests

Neenah—Five wrestling and boxing officials took the W.I.A.A. examinations conducted at Neenah High school last night by Principal J. H. Holzman.

They were Randy Haase, Menasha; George Christoph, Neenah; Melvin Knox and Wallace Cole, Appleton; Val Sherman, Clintonville; and Richard Erditz, Oshkosh.

Neenah was one of 17 centers at which examinations were given yesterday.

Cigarets Made Last Year Would Reach to Moon, Back 20 Times

Neenah—If all the cigarettes manufactured last year were laid end to end, A. W. Lawton, representative of a tobacco company, told the Neenah Rotary club in a talk at the noon meeting Thursday at the Valley Inn, they would reach from here to the moon and back again 20 times. There were 180,000,000 cigarettes manufactured in this country in 1939.

Lawton pointed out that 10 per cent of all federal income last year was from the tobacco taxes which totaled $609,000,000.

Peter Gehrke, representing the Neenah Junior Chamber of Commerce, talked on the state-wide campaign for the promotion of the sale of Christmas cheese packages.

J. H. Holzman, program chairman, announced the program for the next meeting. He reported that several Neenah High school students, four of whom were born in foreign and others whose parents were born in other countries, will appear before the club dressed in costumes and tell how Christmas is observed in other nations.

PUERTO RICO

People in Puerto Rico, like many in Mexico, are experts at balancing things on their heads.

A woman who goes to market in Puerto Rico may use a pony, cart or donkey cart. If she doesn't, she is quite likely to carry a basket and to balance it on her head when she takes it home filled with vegetables and fruits.

Oranges, mangos, pineapples, grapefruit and bananas are the fruits most often eaten on the island. Coconut milk is a popular drink.

Puerto Ricans are fond of music and dancing. Usually an orchestra has at least six kinds of instruments. These include two types of guitars, one of which has the special name of "cuatra."

Other instruments are accordions, "maracas" and "palitos." A "maraca" is built from a pair of gourds filled with seeds. "Palitos" are hardwood sticks which are struck together.

Another instrument is the "guiro." It is a long gourd with grooves cut on one side. A rod is scraped on it to make music of a sort.

For many years people in Puerto Rico—chiefly the negroes—have danced the so-called "Bomba." This dance is said to go back to the jungle tribes of Africa.

Like several other more-or-less barbaric dances, the Bomba has been brought into North America. Such things happen from time to time, and some persons always seem ready to imitate tom-tom coppers which long ago were practiced by savage tribes.

San Juan is the chief city of Puerto Rico. It is a noisy place, with rattling carts, clanging trolley cars and shouting pedlars.

Puerto Rico has few animals which a hunter would care to track down, but fishing is good in some of the rivers and streams. Some natives make their living by fishing; they wade into a river and use nets to capture the fish. Here and there a fisherman builds a hut in the middle of a river. It is placed on high posts and has a thatched roof.

The old "sport" of cock-fighting has had a place in the island's life for many years. Since the United States took control, there have been few public cock-fights, but some are held in backyards and other secret places. The far more healthful pastime, baseball, has grown in favor during the past 20 years.

Accommodating Thief

Spartanburg, S. C.—A thief with a conscience stopped Patrolman Lamar Riddle to confess he had stolen an automobile. Since there was no record of such a car being stolen the man was locked up pending investigation. A few minutes later the car owner called to report the theft.

The Road to Shani Lun

By Rita Mohler Hamson

The religious enclosure. The monks were Mongols and Tibetans, good fighters when they needed to fight and respected for the fact by the Moslems, who were inclined to leave them alone.

They could send a fast messenger on to the Chinese military stronghold at Tsin with the telegrams Temu wished to dispatch; the monastery would be blessed by their presence.

Lynn suspected that Temu did not translate everything that had passed between them. He looked at the two weary girls and accepted the invitation. The monks, however, bowed deeply and brought her his donkey to ride.

It did not seem incredible to him, evidently, that a goddess should be met on the highway leading before the revolution. The gesture touched and warmed her heart. Her thoughts flew to a woman in Palestine who had ridden a donkey, and suspecting a certain state of affairs, she gave the animal to Peggy.

Temu helped her mount, and giving the little donkey a slap, sent him jogging up the path he had just come.

You need the lift as much as your friend," he said mildly. "But since you are a goddess, I suppose you can do as you please."

Lynn told him she was glad he had learned one thing about her. "As you please within limits," he smilingly amended.

The monastery houses, with their flat roofs and ladders for mounting to them, climbed the canyon side in a way that reminded Lynn vaguely of a Pueblo village, except for the surrounding wall.

They were taken to an apartment in the grand lama's house near the upper wall, overlooking the rest of the enclosure. The several rooms opening into each other were clean and bare except for the stove, with its usual short-legged table, and the altar niches with their images and offering vessels.

In the largest room was a table set with food. The grand lama served them with tea, Chinese cakes, pickled bean pods, and dates. As he left, he knelt before Lynn and asked if she would bless him.

"Touch him with something," Temu suggested.

She picked up Peggy's parasol and touched him lightly. The simple, devout, old fellow turned and went out, his face shining with an inner light as if he had been blessed.

He watched Lynn's eyes follow him, strangely gentle expression on her face. "You see what it means to be the Tara," he said in a low voice. "To be loved by an untold number of people and remembered in their prayers, never criticized, never questioned, never thought of except in love and devotion."

"It is wonderful," she admitted softly. "But I am quite sure that I am not worthy of anything like that."

"You are not the judge," Chan came in from the meal he and Bula had eaten in their own room and set about heating a pot of water. Bula followed, and in a corner brought out his knitting. The head lama returned with a living Buddha, a boy of seven or eight who had a bowl on his wrist. Temu lanced the infection and banded it.

"He was born my cousin," the lama explained. "But he is the reincarnation of my elder brother who died eight years ago." Tears came to the old man's eyes. "I could not bear to see him die a second time."

"We'll take good care of this," Temu assured him. "and it will soon be healed." He turned and translated to the girls what the head lama had said.

Lynn looked around at the people in the room, Peggy, Chan, Temu, Bula, the high lama, the little Buddha, and a grasse-grimed attendant monk who had come in with the latter two.

"I wonder," she asked in a mischievous mood, "if any of my former relatives are present?"

Peggy giggled. "Bula may be a husband from a former incarnation. He stares at you adoringly enough."

"If he were a husband he would probably be trying to order me around."

"You've said it!" Peggy returned in heartfelt agreement.

"Temu taught me to be reborn Hindu some time and taught proper reverence and appreciation for husbands." He cleared the room of the rest of the men.

"Perhaps that's already happened to you, once too often," Lynn retorted maliciously, "and the worms have turned."

"Two worms!" he hooted.

Peggy burst into tears. "I want to go home!" she sobbed.

"We'll send you back as soon as possible," Temu promised.

"A night's sleep will do you good," Lynn assured her, "and you shall have a bath if we have nothing more for a tub than a teacup."

Chan managed to find a copper kettle and fill it with hot water. Many soft, padded quilts of Chinese satin were brought into make a comfortable bed. Lynn stayed with Peggy. Tucked her in, and sat beside her for a while afterwards.

"I suppose it will be just my luck to have twins," sighed Peggy.

Lynn was enthusiastic. "That will be fun."

"For whom?" Peggy moaned.

"For everybody. I always wanted to be twins myself."

Peggy turned her face to the wall and shuddered. "It seems to me that you get into enough outlandish predicaments as it is. Why double the liabilities? And why did I ever take you for a model?"

Lynn laughed and gave her a reassuring pat. "You've stopped irritating me now and gone me one better. Or should I say two?"

"Leave me," Peggy ordered.

"You're too dandified cheerful."

Lynn slipped into her coat and entered the courtyard. Temu came striding up the path towards her.

Johnson Scores Morgenthau's Remark About 'Slacker Money'

BY HUGH S. JOHNSON

New York City—Mr. Morgenthau's attempt to cut out tax-exempt governmental securities is a step in the right direction, although it will be a long hard job. That kind of bond should never have been permitted in the first place.

They were issued partly because of a fear growing out of a constitutional principle—that if the federal government could tax the credit of the states, or the states could tax the credit of the nation, one form of government could destroy the other—and partly because tax-exempt securities have a higher market value and therefore a lower interest rate than tax-free securities. That permitted state and national governments to "hire" their borrowed money cheaply by insisting on their tax exemption.

That principle worked fairly well before taxes in the higher brackets of income became almost confiscatory. Before that, almost all investors, figuring the relative value of fixed-income securities, balanced security with rate of return and made their choice between "glutted industrials" and "governmentals" on a formula that figured a flat addition to income from the tax-exemption of government securities. With slight exceptions, big and little investors used the same rule. Governments probably lost no revenue at all from tax exemption because of the much higher rate on perfectly safe industrials made enough more taxable income to offset the loss through exemptions.

After the higher brackets of large incomes began to be taxed from 83 per cent to 90 per cent by all governments, after interest rates on "industrials" began to descend to the vanishing point and the number of perfectly safe industrials began to decline, the old formula didn't work any more. The tax exemption became much more valuable to big incomes. For that and other reasons, there was a great rush of all investment, and especially the money of the very rich, into tax-exempt government securities.

All that is a very good reason for the new rule about tax-exemption, but it is no reason at all for Mr. Morgenthau to begin to call any money invested in tax-exempt securities "slacker money," or to mouth meaningless words about "drafting capital because we draft man-power."

The latter is a particularly low grade of pure demagoguery, which is the more to be condemned because what he proposes is not "drafting" capital at all. As to the former, if investing in the only kind of securities this government has seen fit to offer investors is slackerism, then Mr. Morgenthau has invented a new idea of the duties of patriotism that nobody ever entertained before.

Sang Different Tune In Last World War

During the World War, this government so emphasized the obligation to invest in tax-exempt defense bonds that you were a slacker if you didn't hock everything feasible, including your prospect of future income, to buy them. Even soldiers at the front felt the heat on their meager pay.

Ever since, and especially during Mr. Morgenthau's term of office, vast quantities of these securities have been literally forced on the banks for the investment of the savings of all the people. Now over night, Mr. Morgenthau discovers that this was "slacker money," which can only mean that the investors or those who managed their money were "slackers."

That is no formula for national unity. Of course, it wasn't intentional. It was just ignorant, but Mr. Morgenthau's several similar slips haven't done the defense of this country any good. He strangely reached for control of airplane production nearly two years ago, the floundering which resulted from that is as much as anything responsible for the present inexcusable lag in production, whether for Great Britain or ourselves. What our defense program most needs is competence.

Buckman and George Awaiting Transfer

Madison—(P)—B. E. Buckman and Louis C. George, officers of the defunct Buckman Investment company of Madison will be released from Waupun state prison tomorrow and will be held in custody at Milwaukee over the weekend for transfer to the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kans.

With time off for good behavior, Buckman and George will have completed tomorrow state sentences of one to three years for violation of the securities laws. They began their prison terms June 14, 1938.

They were convicted in federal court here last August on charges of mail fraud, conspiracy and violation of the national securities act. New terms of five years for Buckman and six years for George were imposed.

United States Marshal John Comford said the prisoners would be held at Milwaukee for transfer to Madison and when they arrived here they would be taken to Leavenworth.

Public Would Cancel War Debts for Islands

BY DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J.—The American public would be satisfied to write off the British World War debt in exchange for lands or territory in the area of the Panama Canal. This fact emerges from a nation-wide study of public opinion just completed by the Institute.

Dr. Gallup

The majority take the attitude that the debt will probably never be paid, and hence "write off" the debt. In fact, the idea of exchanging debts for islands has gained greatly in public favor in the last year.

When a bill was introduced in Congress a little over a year ago to provide for such an exchange, a sizable majority of voters favored the idea. Today the number is overwhelming.

In all different areas of the country people of voting age were asked to give their views on the following question:

"If England offers to pay its World War debt to the United States by giving up islands or land near the Panama Canal, would you approve our accepting this offer?"

Those expressing an opinion voted as follows:

Yes 88%
No 12%

One voter in every 10 (10 per cent) was undecided or without an opinion.

In November, 1939, the Institute conducted a survey on the same issue, with the following results:

"Would you be willing to see the United States trade the war debts which the English owe us for some islands near the Panama Canal?"

Nov., 1939
Yes 66%
No 34%

One person in seven (15 per cent) had no opinion at that time.

Practical Reasons Given

The question whether British possessions in the Caribbean area—Jamaica, Trinidad, British Honduras, the Bahamas and other places—would be actually worth the more than $4,000,000,000 of British World War debt is a question which only experts could decide. What today's study indicates is simply that the public would accept the principle of settling the British war debt in this manner.

Besides believing that "we might as well get something for our money," the majority who favor the exchange declare the British possessions around the Panama Canal would be "valuable for American defense."

Curiously enough, virtually no one in the survey brought up the objection to the proposal which some Britishers have advanced—that it would be undemocratic and bad policy to "sell" life pawns the populations of the British possessions.

The chief objections raised by American voters are that the war debts should be paid in cash alone, and second, that the United States has enough territory now to defend. Here are some typical attitudes expressed by voters in the study:

McKeesport, Pa., bus driver: "Anything to get the debt paid?"

Grey Bull, Wyo., bookkeeper: "We may get no other pay on the debt and we need those bases around the Canal."

Schenectady, N. Y., charwoman: "If we don't take them now, Hitler may get them later on. Who knows?"

Indianapolis investment banker: "This is a good way to get the debt question settled technically. Then we could go ahead and give Britain financial help if they need it."

Mountain Home, Idaho, farmer's wife: "We could colonize those won a contest. Prizes at five hundred were taken by Mrs. Earl Pash, Mrs. Gertrude Macnechy and Mrs. Weisenberger."

There was a tree, and Christmas gifts were exchanged. The January meeting will be held with Mrs. Arnold Burmeister.

Mrs. E. S. Maas, Mrs. Oscar Barthel and Mrs. Arnold Burmeister won the prizes Tuesday evening when Mrs. J. B. Huhn entertained the Neighborhood Five Hundred club.

The Binghamton Home Economics club had its Christmas party Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Kruse, route 2, Mrs. Louis Wehrman was the assistant hostess.

There were 19 members and 4 visitors. The next meeting will be Jan. 16 with Mrs. August Knorr.

N. Y. Stocks Advance After Sluggish Start

Selected Issues
Take to Recovery
Trail on Exchange

New York—(P)—Selective recovery tendencies persisted in the stock market today despite the restraining influence of further year-end tax offerings.

The list stumbled at the start, then got back on its feet when steels were accorded support. A number of industrial specialties, including lately dormant amusements and utilities, took the upward trail and, at the best, gains of fractions to two points or so were well sprinkled over the ticket tape.

Occasional fast flurries put the turnover at around 900,000 shares. Aircrafts were inclined to sluggishness, along with the majority of rails and oils.

Bullish thinkers felt the market was entitled to a revival, even if only temporary, because of its healthier technical position in the wake of a lengthy stalemate.

Among the new high for the year were those of Crucible Steel common and preferred, Paramount Pictures, American Shipbuilding and White Motors.

Favorable performers were Leew's Warner Bros. Eastman Kodak, United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Consolidated Edison, North American, Nickel Plate preferred, U. S. Rubber and International Harvester.

Secondary railroad bonds tilted forward. Commodities were uneven. Wheat at Chicago was 1/2 of a cent a bushel lower to 1/2 and corn was down 1/2 to 1/2. Cotton, in late deals, was up 1/2 to 1/2 cents a bale.

Reflecting further adjustments for the income tax blanks was a sale of one 70,800-share block of Commonwealth and Southern on the "big board" in the forenoon, unchanged at 1/2. This equalled the 1940 low for the issue.

Steels had the benefit of predictions that next week's mill operations would hold at or near record capacity levels although some observers saw the likelihood of a mild let-down in the near future.

On the side of the motors was a compilation of Ward's placing the current week's output of new cars at 125,625 units against 124,790 in the preceding week and 118,405 in the same days of 1939. It was remarked that this week's total was exceptionally large for so late in the year and that the speed-up of assemblies was making it possible for dealers to catch up on their back orders.

Charles Mertens Chief at Sherwood

Sherwood—Sherwood Volunteer Fire department members held their annual meeting Tuesday evening at Spoerl's hall with a large attendance. Membership dues for 1941 were set at $1.20 with all dues to be payable on or before Jan. 10, 1941. Members not paid up by that time will be dropped. New members may also join at the $1.20 rate.

Officers elected at the meeting were: Charles Mertens, chief; John Vandenberg, assistant chief; John Stumpf, secretary; Jim Hallett, treasurer; Irvin Maurer, Norbert Holzsch, John Hartzheim, William Erdmann and West Seidel, nozzlemen, and John Brantner, Clarence Erdmann, Wenzel Eckes, and Hiland Brandmeier, ladder-men. All property owners in the community are eligible to join the department.

Beloit Man Head of Consolidated Firms

Beloit—(P)—Consolidation of the Yates-American company and three affiliates under the presidency of Alvin Haas, of Beloit, has been voted.

The concern, to be known as the Yates-American Machine company, combines the Yates-American company of Beloit, the P. B. Yates Machine company, of Hamilton, Ont., the General Refrigeration corporation of South Beloit, Ill., and the New York Looman company, of New York city.

Executive offices will be in Chicago.

The Yates-American company manufactures woodworking machinery and air conditioning and refrigerating units.

Announce $1 Advance In Price of Pig Iron

Chicago—(P)—Interlake Iron corporation has announced to the trade an advance of $1 a ton in the price of pig iron to a base price of $24 a ton, effective Dec. 9 for first quarter, 1941, deliveries, a spokesman said today.

Sales have been made at the new prices, said the spokesman, who declined to be identified, but he refused comment on whether other pig iron producers would follow the advance.

Chicago Poultry

Chicago—(P)—Poultry live, 36 trucks; steady; ducks, 4 lbs. up; colored 12; white 13; geese, over 12 lbs. 11. Other prices unchanged. Turkeys, box packed; market steady and unchanged.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks and appreciation for the acts of kindness, sympathy and beautiful floral offerings received from our kind neighbors and friends during our recent bereavement in the loss of our beloved mother, Mrs. Martha (Goecker) Beck, who passed away December 10, 1940. We especially thank the Rev. Mr. Hummel, Father Becker and Sister M. Launhardt and those who so kindly offered cars to the children.

Black Creek—The village board has announced the awarding of contracts for the Black Creek water and sewer system project.

The village will build a water system and sewage disposal plant at a cost of about $70,000. The contracts are as follows: Labor and digging of sewer system and water mains,
 West Construction company, Westfield, Wis.; piping, James B. Clow,
 Chicago; hydrants and valves,
 Mueller company, Decatur, Ill.;
 brass materials and copper pipe,
 Milwaukee Lead Works; steel water tank, Pittsburgh-Des Moines
 Steel company, Chicago; general construction of disposal plant.

General construction of disposal plant, Hron Brothers, West Bend; sewage pump and controls, American Well Works company, Aurora, Ill.; heating, piping, and plumbing in disposal plant, R. H. Gehrkke
 Hardware company, Black Creek.

Construction of the disposal plant will start in about two weeks. A test well has been drilled, but no contract has yet been awarded for the digging of the main well.

World War Days are

Recalled at Manitowoc

Manitowoc—The Manitowoc shipbuilding yards have taken on appearances similar to world war days since the government placed an order for 10 submarines here.

A high steel mesh fence has been erected to enclose the plant. Soon no person without a government pass will be permitted to enter the yards and river frontage will be floodgated.

Extension of Bituminous Coal Act to be Sought Next Session

Washington—(P)—A two year extension of the bituminous coal act for regulation of minimum prices of soft coal will be asked of the next congress, Secretary Ickes said Thursday. At the same time he expressed doubt this congress would pass legislation for federal inspection of coal mines.

The bituminous coal act, passed four years ago, created the bituminous coal commission to fix minimum prices at the mine with a view to eliminating "cutthroat" competition, sales of coal below cost of production, and stabilizing the industry. This regulation would be discontinued with the expiration of the Guffey act in April, 1941.

Asked at his press conference if he expected any additional provisions, such as allocation of coal production — frequently mentioned in coal circles as a possible basis for new legislation—Ickes replied: "We aren't looking for a chance to go beyond the present law. We want to see that successful first."

Ickes, who has advocated passage of the measure, said that figures just compiled by the bureau of mines showed that in the "most recent" five year period 6,280 men were killed in the nation's coal mines.

"If that ratio is unchanged," he added, "we can look for 1,230 deaths in the mines in 1941."

The Neely-Keller inspection bill, was passed by the senate last spring with virtually no comment. It was subject to long hearings by a house committee which subsequently held that although it felt safety legislation was needed it did not believe that the pending bill would accomplish that purpose.

Endorsed by the United Mine Workers of America as a means of reducing accidents in the mines, the inspection bill has been opposed by the National Coal association and officials of most coal mining states as unnecessary duplication of work of state departments of mines.
